McGovern Says Nixon Responsible

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate vote against the end-the-war amendment" was the final step in turning over complete responsibility for the Indochina war to President Nixon, contends George McGovern.

"His unchecked and unfettered role now as the chief executive makes him responsible alone now for developments in the future," the senator said in an interview. "If things come out well, he'll be a hero. If things come out as I think they will—which is very poorly—then he's in trouble."

McGovern, leader of the forces that lost 55-39 on the Hatfield-McGovern amendment requiring withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Vietnam by the end of 1971, was relaxed and unruffled as he sat in his office a few hours after the vote Tuesday and talked about its meaning.

"I think it is an abdication of our constitutional responsibilities to place the whole burden on the President," said the South Dakota Democrat.

"Today, all during this debate, the White House message was 'leave it to the President. He's getting us out, he's in charge, don't try to influence judgments or provide any guidelines at all—give him a free hand.' And the Senate voted to do that today."

The President, McGovern said, made a mistake in insisting on keeping the sole possession of the decision when to end the war.

"He has whatever ego satisfaction comes from demonstrating that he's running the show, that he's running the war," the senator said.

"But he has the great political hazard of making a decision that at best is going to be controversial and unpopular. There's no way to back out of this war now and look graceful about it. You can't settle a war that we're going to settle short of victory without setting off a lot of cries of anguish in the country."

The amendment was born in McGovern's office in late April —just before the incursion in Cambodia. Four versions of it came to the Senate—all of them bearing the imprint and zeal of the senator from South Dakota.

Is he now discouraged?

"Temporarily," McGovern said. "I'll recover by tomorrow. I am baffled as to why so many senators who are willing to admit the whole war is a mistake are so reluctant to terminate it. That, I think, is a paradox that is discouraging."

There will be no more efforts this year on McGovern's part to stop the war by legislative action.

Warm, Humid Weather to Continue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Warm, humid weather is expected to continue in Arkansas through Thursday.

The forecast also includes scattered showers and thundershowers, occurring mainly in the afternoons and evenings. The most numerous shower activity is expected in the western portion of the state.

The precipitation is being caused by an upper air low located over Western Texas and Southeast Colorado.

Desegregation Plan Offered

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Little Rock School Board Tuesday submitted a junior high school desegregation plan to U. S. District Court that would convert Horace Mann High School into a junior high school.

The board had submitted a high school desegregation plan earlier that included phasing out Horace Mann.

Under the plan submitted Tuesday, West Side Junior High School would be closed in 1971.

West Side students would be asisgned to other junior high schools in the city.

Judge J. Smith Henley rejected a junior high desegregation plan Aug. 17 and told the board that failure to submit a suitable plan might result in delaying the start of classes.

Coaches Tell Kiwanians About Team

Hope High School Head Coach, Ronnie Higgins, accompanied by coaching staff members, Solomon, Tate, White, Ross, McMurray, and Alexander, presented the program at Tuesday's Kiwanis Club meeting.

Coach Higgins said that he was looking forward this year to the toughest schedule in the four years he has been on the Bobcat staff. In spite of the fact that with one exception the entire offensive line graduated last year, he was not pessemistic over this years prospects.

Only ten regular games are scheduled this year rather than the usual twelve. This is in order that the eleventh game will provide a conference champion at the end of regular play, and the Hope team is determined to be in that conference play-off. Should they win in the conference, they will play game number twelve in the State playoffs in the AA classification.

With the new Kiwanis year beginning October 1st, President-elect Dale Franks is in the process of appointing his committees for his administration.

$100,000 Loan to Faubus Is Revealed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Democrat reported Tuesday that Orval E. Faubus borrowed $105,000 in 1969 on acreage in Madison County.

The newspaper said information on the loan was obtained from Madison County records at Huntsville. The records, the article said, were obtained by David Stewart, an aide to Dale Bumpers, Faubus' opponent in the Sept. 8 runoff primary.

Faubus issued a statement in which he confirmed that records reflect a $100,000 loan and declining further comment "at this time."

The Democrat said the loan was obtained from the Hot Springs Crop., which was incorporated July 28, 1960, with Vernon Giss, George W. Dickey and William L. Terry as incorporators.

Giss and Dickey were identified as officers in Stephens, Inc., an investment firm headed by Jack Stephens, brother of W. R. Stephens, president of Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. and a former Faubus backer.

Terry was identified as a member of the law firm of Smith, Williams, Friday and Bowen. The senior member of this firm, William J. Smith, once was an adviser to Faubus.

West Helen Plan Will Re-open

WEST HELENA, Ark. (AP)— Officials of Mohawk Rubber Co. and United Rubber Workers Local 539 announced Tuesday settlement of a strike that led to closure of the firm's tire manufacturing plant here Aug. 15.

The two sides said union members completed ratification Monday night on a three-year contract that would raise pay of most workers 82 cents an hour over the three-year period.

The three-year pay boost for skilled workers will amount to $1.07 per hour.

Mohawk held out the possibility, however, that the plant might be closed again next year if the operation provides unprofitable in the next 12 months.

Since late last year, the plant had been struck by work stoppages, slowdowns and a workers' ban on overtime because of disputes with management policies.

The strike began last June 8, when the old contract expired, and Mohawk closed the facility slightly over two weeks ago.

Finance Board Buys U.S. Bonds

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Board of Finance voted Tuesday to use $6 million of the state's cash depositis to buy United States Treasury notes.

State Treasurer Nanch Hall said the state's cash deposits Tuesday totaled $33,634,108.78, which is deposited in 11 banks in the state. She said the state had $24,844,000 in its securities account, to which the $6 million purchase would be added.

BUMPERS,

ference at El Dorado, renewed his assertion that Rockefeller forces are supporting Bumpers in the runoff. Why? Because Bumpers would be easier for Rockefeller to beat, Faubus said.

Bumpers, who has responded to Faubus' charges by sawying, "He knows better than that," said he had no proof of a Rockefeller - Faubus connection but that it was "common knowledge among people who know politics."

Faubus said a "whispering campaign" had been underway for several weeks spreading the rumor that Bumpers voiced Tuesday.

The theory, he said, is that, after winning the primary, Faubus will be desperate for funds and will sell out to Rockefeller. "Or already has sold out," he added.

The answer to Bumpers' charge, he said, will come in November when Rockefeller is defeated, Faubus said.

The former governor said he was not contending that Rockefeller had put Bumpers into the race, only that Bumpers benefitted from Rockefeller help late in the preferential primary campaign and on into the runoff.

Bumpers said "not one red cent" had come to his campaign from Rockefeller.

The Charleston attorney, who surprised many political observers by making the runoff, also restated criticism of Faubus' campaign tactics, accusing the former governor of "savage and slanderous attacks" of a kind that keep good men out of politics.

Faubus responded at El Dorado by declaring that Bumpers didn't have to attack him because the Arkansas Gazette and Rockefeller's computers and mailing lists were doing the job for Bumpers.

"He can stand by and be a good boy," Faubus said. "They're going to do the punching and criticizing for him."

In an interview with a television station, Faubus said he has more fear about the Sept. 8 runoff primary than about the general election. Reiterating his contention about Rockefeller forces helping Bumpers, he said, "They have a better candidate in Dale Bumpers than they do in Rockefeller."

The two candidates also discussed liberalism Tuesday with Faubus declaring that he was, in truth, more liberal than either Bumpers or Rockefeller, this despite the fact that he called Bumpers a "flaming liberal" of Rockefeller's ilk in a television speech Sunday night.

Explaining that he considered Bumpers and Rockefeller "bogus liberals," he said:

"I meant a more effective liberal," Faubus said. "The true liberal is one who gets something done. The true liberal is one who brings about social progress, not just (someone who) goes out and talks about it as Rockefeller and Bumpers are doing."

Faubus cited a retirement plan for state employes and hospital benefits for welfare clients as two examples of social progress he had sponsored.

The trip to El Dorado marked only the second time Faubus has worked outside Little Rock during the runoff. Bumpers has accused him of trying to win the election on the telephone "talking to bigwigs." Besides the news conference and interviews, Faubus shook hands with about 50 persons who met him at the Holiday Inn.

Bumpers, after making the television tape, campaigned in Pine Bluff, shaking hands at Pine Bluff High School and speaking at a rally in the Civic Center.

He later met voters at his Jefferson County headquarters which was, until a week ago, a Purcell headquarters. The conversion of a Purcell headquarters into a Bumpers headquarters at Batesville figures in Faubus' contention that Rockefeller is helping Bumpers. He maintains the Batesville facility was leased by persons who are known as Democrats for Rockefeller.

Bumpers departed briefly from his pledge not to attack Faubus by charging in the television speech that Faubus allowed "disorder of the grossest kind to flourish" at Hot Springs. He prefaced this by declaring that gambling, the disorder he later talked about, was an issue in the campaign.

Bumpers said Faubus was appealing to emotion on the busing issue but that voters "want somebody who can solve the problems."

He said he would withhold a decision on what he, as governor, might do about busing until the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled whether school districts can be forced to bus pupils to achieve racial balance in schools.

Faubus told a television interviewer: "If we don't win this battle against school busing, we're going to lose the battle to save this nation." He did not elaborate.

CENSUS DEPICTS

lost population, including Chicago, Detroit and Baltimore. New York held about even. Big gainers were the warm-weather cities of Los Angeles, Houston, Dallas, San Diego, San Antonio and Phoenix.

—Farm population declined from 15 million to 10 million. Old migration patterns continued, from the center of the nation to the coasts and from South to North.

Stans said despite howls from localities that felt slighted in previously released preliminary counts, he thinks the 1970 census will prove to be the most accurate ever.

He said the bureau has completed rechecks involving 6½ million persons and turned up only 4,200 missed the first time around. He said he was sure that would be the case with the rest of the rechecks requested by localities.

Dr. George H. Brown, director of the census, said "we have every reason to believe" that the final count will be less than 3 per cent off.

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

MRS. CARROLL D. McKEE

Wedding vows were exchanged at 4 p.m. Sunday, August 30 in the Earle United Methodist Church by Miss Nancy Jan Harrell and Carroll Duane McKee. The Rev. Leon Wilson and the Rev. Harold Wilson of Augusta officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Holmes Harrell of Earle, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Monroe McKee of Hope.

The bride's father gave her in marriage. Her gown of silk organza had a Victorian neckline of Alencon lace accented with seed pearls. Appliques of the lace enhanced the Bishop sleeves with calla-lily pointed cuffs. Her chapel-length train featured an Alencon lace panel ending in a cathedralspire point. Her veil of illusion was attached to a coronet of organza and satin roses centered with rhinestones. She carried carnations and stephanotis centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Richard Parenti of Salt Lake City, Utah, was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Janet Choate of Earle and Miss Donna Choate of Beebe, cousins of the bride; Miss Linda Flowers of Pensacola, Fla.; Miss Linda Kay Hodges of Earle; and Miss Sidney Marlos Gardner of Wynne and Fayetteville. They wore floor-length gowns of turquoise mirromist nylon with Empire waist-lines and cape sleeves. They carried cascades of white daisies. Their headpieces were full-blown mirromist roses with illusion veils.

Candles were lighted by David and Mike Choate of Beebe. The ring bearer was Mark Speed of Earle.

The flower girls were Nancy Lynn Choate of Beebe and Stacy Butler of Hope. Their gowns were white mirromist nylon fashioned like the bridesmaids' with accents in their headpieces and baskets of turquoise ribbons, white daisies and lilies of the valley.

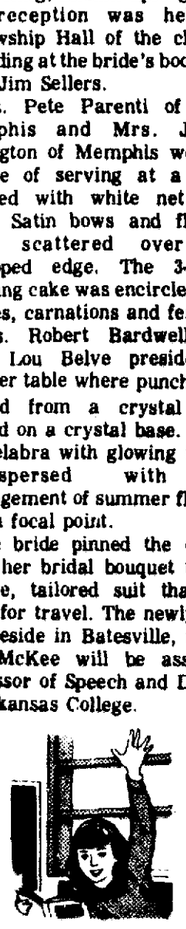

Groomsmen were Joe Wilson, Augusta; Jimmy Choate and Robert Bardwell, Earle; Pete Parenti, West Memphis; and Allan King, Siloam Springs.

A reception was held in Fellowship Hall of the church. Presiding at the bride's book was Mrs. Jim Sellers.

Mrs. Pete Parenti of West Memphis and Mrs. James Covington of Memphis were in charge of serving at a table covered with white net over satin. Satin bows and flowers were scattered over the scalloped edge. The 3-tiered wedding cake was encircled with daisies, carnations and fern.

Mrs. Robert Bardwell and Miss Lou Belve presided at another table where punch was served from a crystal bowl placed on a crystal base. Silver candelabra with glowing tapers interspersed with an arrangement of summer flowers was a focal point.

The bride pinned the orchid from her bridal bouquet to her mauve, tailored suit that she wore for travel. The newlyweds will reside in Batesville, where Mr. McKee will be assistant professor of Speech and Drama at Arkansas College.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

SIXTEEN OR SIXTY, LOVE STILL HURTS

Dear Helen:

At 60, you can be just as dumb, stupid and naive as you were at age-16. And love can hurt just as much.

In proper order I have been a wife, mother, divorcee, widow, and am now a lonely grandma. I have known Hal (we'll call him) the last half of my life. He was always there, taking me out, making demands and promises, also in the proper order, and he led me to believe that when the right time came, we would be married.

The right time never came! I loved him with all my heart, and trusted him to boot. Well, the boot was what I got. After my divorce, and the death of his wife, nothing stood in our way, except that by this time Hal wanted "no more ties." So long as he couldn't have me as his wife, he was all for our sometime marriage. It was only a ruse to keep his little affair going!

So-o-o-, after taking half of my life, he took off, and I'm left completely alone at 60. The big difference between the loss of a young love and an old one is that the young can start over. —WHAT'S LEFT FOR ME?

Dear WLFM:

You can start over at almost any age—if you stop playing "Poor Little Misused Me."

So you lost him. So you almost had love and solace during what might have been very lonely years (and this perhaps is more than his wife had).

From your letter, I judge you are still young and alert, well able to get out and circulate. Join a "singles club," a hobby club, a civic or political organization that keeps you involved. Take college night school courses. Be a volunteer.

Maybe you won't find another man tomorrow, but you'll soon discover a new life can begin at 60. —H.

Dear Helen:

He was a college fraternity brother, a Phi Beta Kappa. He held responsible government and industry jobs. Now he's an admitted alcoholic, on his way to skid row.

He comes in my office about twice a week, hits me for a ten or a five. I'm sorry for the guy but the "brother's keeper" thing is wearing my wallet thin.

When do you stop living by the parable of the Good Samaritan? ALTON

Dear Alton:

...When you become known as an easy touch!

Your money only buys this alcoholic more booze. Why not instead contact fraternity brothers who might combine on a rehabilitation program? A Phi Beta Kappa is worth saving. —H.

Dear Helen:

My wife, at 54, says "all that love stuff" is for young people. She was never cold before, but now she says that part of her life is over. It isn't over for me. I love her and need her and, though she tells me to find a substitute in another woman (just don't get emotionally involved, she adds), I couldn't do that. I don't think she means it anyway. She's not herself these days.

What can I do? —NOT FINISHED AT 56

Dear 56:

Don't give up hope until you consult your family doctor. Perhaps your wife is suffering from such an easily adjusted problem as hormone imbalance. Shots or pills (when needed) can all but turn back the clock. —H.

Dear Helen:

I've read several letters in your column from or about lonely wives of overseas Servicemen. Please tell them about the Waiting Wives Club, a national organization with chapters in most large cities. They may call the local Red Cross for further information. —A WAITING WIFE FROM ST. PAUL

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble; let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of (name of newspaper).

Jonesboro Predicted as AAA-East

By HARRY KING
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) —Jonesboro's first offensive and defensive units scrimmaged last weeks and coach Don Riggs came away worried about his defense.

After looking at the performances of tailback Orlester Manning and quarterback Scott Bull, Riggs felt a little better.

Manning gained 148 yards and at one point, Bull completed seven straight passes.

"We were real pleased with our offense," Riggs said. "I just hope our offensive is what happened to our defense."

Manning and Bull are two of the reasons Jonesboro is picked to repeat as champions of AAA-East.

In AAA-West, Springdale — out of habit — is the choice. The Bulldogs have won the Class AAA title the last three years.

Riggs is high on Manning, a 185-pounder, who gained 778 yards on 118 carries last year.

"Orlester isn't a fancy player, but he sure is hard-nosed," Riggs said. "I know he's the best I've coached and as far as I'm concerned, he's the best in the state."

Bull, a 6-4, 190-pounder, closed the 1969 season with four strong performances after adjusting to contact lenses.

Forrest City could be Jonesboro's sternest challenger.

Like Jonesboro, the Mustangs have an outstanding quarterback-tailback tandem in Dudley Parker and R. L. Steward.

"You name the pass and Dudley can throw it," said coach Bill Shimek. "If there's a better quarterback in the state, I haven't seen him."

Parker, a 6-1, 175-pounder, hit on 109 of 199 passes for 1,375 yards. Steward gained 772 yards on 160 carries.

"If some linemen come through, we can go all the way," Shimek said. "If they don't, we won't."

Here is a brief look at the other six teams in AAA-East.

WEST MEMPHIS — The Blue Devils were 9-1 last year, but lost highly sought running back Terry McFarland and almost everyone else. Dave Woodell is expected to replace departed Gary Westmoreland at tailback and new coach Ray Rowe counts fullback Vince Angellitti, linebacker Barry Hostetler and end William Person among the quality athletes.

LITTLE ROCK MCCLELLAN —Coach Mike Malham says the Lions' biggest problem is lack of speed in the backfield and secondary. Frank Baughtman, a transfer from Little Rock Hall, and Terry Greenwood, a transfer from Jonesboro, are expected to be the running backs. Malham expects the defense to be sound even though only three starters return.

BLYTHEVILLE — Coach Alan Stolt says Blytheville is shy on depth and that several players will have to go both ways. Stolt is high on backs Steve Beavers and Joe T. Robinson and linebacker Wayne Smith.

JACKSONVILLE — Coach Olan Burns says Jacksonville's offense must improve if the Red Devils are to win the title they captured two years ago. He says development of offensive guards and running backs is a necessity. The Red Devils have three outstanding linebackers — John Mass, Rickie Gray and Clifford Barlow.

HELENA CENTRAL — Eighteen lettermen from Helena Central's 2-8 team of 1969 greet new coach Wallace Porter. The top backfield prospects include Morris Ross, Tommy Fridell and Kenny Fielder.

MARIANNA —Defense, headed by linebackers Span Wilson and and John Wood, is the strongpoint at Marianna. Safety Mike Ligon is also top-notch. Marianna could benefit from a consolidation with Marianna Strong, the Negro school.

Jarrell Williams is the only coach in AAA West who isn't pointing the finger at Springdale.

"I think we've got a pretty good team," Williams says. "Like I told the players, it's up to them on how badly they want it as to how many games we'll win. We haven't got a great amount of talent, but we do have a lot of desire. That's 95 per cent of it any way."

Williams is expected to go with David Pickett, but David McAllister and Paul Neal will push Pickett. Dennis Legg and John Ed Smith are battling for the tailback spot.

Williams says his players have heard rumors that this is going to be a "down" year for the Bulldogs.

"That makes the players mad and this is what I like," Williams said. "It'll get their backs up to try to prove they're just as capable as teams that have come before."

Fayetteville, about seven miles south of Springdale, finished second in the conference last season and could be as good or better this year.

"The material is as good as we've ever had up here," admits coach Ray Brown. He's particularly high on his backs — brothers David and Gary Drake, wingback Steve Waller and quarterback David Jones, a lefthander.

"Our running backs are our strong point," Brown said.

Up front, only tackle Pat Faulkner and guard Jack Kilgore are veterans.

"I'm not sure about the defense," Brown said. "I think we can score, but I don't know whether we can stop the other people."

Here is a brief look at the other six teams in AAA-West.

LITTLE ROCK CATHOLIC — The Rockets could be one of the best teams in the state, but will not compete for the AAA-West championship because of schedule difficulties. Quarterback Jimmy Doolittle completed 88 of 164 passes for 1,442 yards last year and end Matt Morrison may be the best of four talented brothers. Eddie LeClair is the only returning defensive starter.

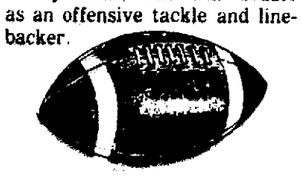

TEXARKANA — Texarkana Coach Jerry Ferguson is impressed by tailback Denny Cowling, and split receivers Gary Hodge and Buzz Trigg. However, graduation left large holes in both the offensive and defensive lines.

FORT SMITH SOUTHSIDE— Jim Rowland inherits five returning starters from last year's 5-5 Southside team. "If our boys prepare themselves like we hope and a few come through like we expect, we could have a respectable team," Rowland said. He is counting on Robert Jolliff at tailback. Tackles Buzz Chamblin, Jeff Bailey and Ronnie Arlick and guards Bobby Mason and Marvin Orendorff form the basis for a solide line.

HOT SPRINGS —Eight offensive and 10 defensive starters return from last year's 3-7 Hot Springs team and new coach Bobby Hannon says the Trojans could pull some surprises. The backfield will include quarterback Ronnie Young, fullback Armnee Coleman, tailback Ricky Eastburn and wingback Curley Robertson.

LITTLE ROCK PARKVIEW — This will be Parkview's first year with a senior class and the Patriots could be the league's darkhorse. Steve Lamb transferred from Little Rock McClellan and should solve the quarterback problem. Coach Sam Goodwin is highest on linebacker-guard Ray Strain, a 205-pounder.

BENTON — Benton was 6-6 last year in AA, but graduated its starting offensive tackles and guards. The offensive backfield — quarterback Johnny Gregory, halfbacks David Hunton and Samuel Calvin and fullback Rick Wilson — returns intact. Coach Gerald Gardner also has good things to say about Randy Cash, who will double as an offensive tackle and linebacker.

Wally Bunker Has 1st Win of Year

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Eleven months ago today, Wally Bunker won a ball game. Tuesday night, the Kansas City right-hander won another.

In between, there was plenty of aggravation, a scarcity of satisfaction and a great, big zero in Bunker's games won column exactly the diet he fed California's frustrated Angels Tuesday night.

Bunker hurled a four-hitter for his first victory of the year, shutting out California 4-0. The loss, combined with Minnesota's 4-0, 7-1 sweep over Milwaukee, cost the Angels 1½ games and dropped them 4½ back in the American League's West Division race.

Elsewhere in the American League Tuesday night, New York trimmed Baltimore 4-2, Detroit outlasted Boston 10-9, Oakland edged Chicago 6-5 and Cleveland topped Washington 4-3.

In the National League, Los Angeles swept a doubleheader from Atlanta 6-3 and 3-2, Philadelphia topped Chicago 3-2 in 13 innings, New York nipped St. Louis 4-3 in 12, Pittsburgh battered Montreal 8-4, San Francisco topped Cincinnati 5-3, and San Diego beat Houston 2-1 in 10.

Bunker, plagued by arm trouble this season, was 0-8 and carried a rather hefty 5.52 earned run average with him when he took the mound against the Angels.

California quickly loaded the bases with none out in the first inning, but Bunker weaved his way out of the jam and was virtually home free after that.

Kansas City bunched five hits and scored all of its runs in the seventh. Ex-Angels' Ed Kirkpatrick and Paul Schaal played prominent roles in the triumph.

Kirkpatrick, who had three hits, opened the seventh with a single. Hits by Billy Sorrell, Schaal and Tom Matchick made it 2-0. Bunker drove in a run on a fielder's choice and Cookie Rojas' two-out single delivered another. Bunker's RBI, like the victory, was his first of the campaign.

The Twins, meanwhile, rode Harmon Killebrew's big bat to their sweep over Milwaukee. Killebrew exploded a pair of three-run homers—one in each game, and drove in seven runs in the doubleheader.

Killebrew's 39th homer in the opener was all the offense Jim Perry needed for his 20th victory. Perry scattered five hits and became the first right-hander to win 20 this year. Baltimore lefthanders Mike Cuellar and Dave McNally and Cincinnati southpaw Jim Merritt all reached 20 victories earlier.

The Twins led the nightcap 1-0 on Killebrew's bad-hop single until there were two out in the ninth. Then Milwaukee bunched hits by Tito Francona, Bob Burda and Ted Kubiak to tie it. It was a momentary problem, though.

Two innings later, the Twins exploded the tie with six runs the last three on Killebrew's second homer of the night and 40th this season. The big slugger now has 106 RBI.

Roy White and Bobby Murcer rocketed home runs, propelling New York past Baltimore. Fritz Peterson got ninth-inning help from Lindy McDaniel to nail down his 16th victory of the season. Jim Hardin, 4-5, took the loss.

Detroit wiped out a seven-run Boston lead and overtook the Red Sox with Jim Price's grand slam homer keying the comeback. Norm Cash, Jim Northrup and Gates Brown also connected for the Tigers while Tony Conigliaro had a bases-loaded homer and Mike Andrews a solo shot for the Red Sox.

Tony Larussa's RBI single capped a two-run ninth-inning rally that gave Oakland its victory over the White Sox. Chicago had scored two runs in the top of the ninth to take the lead but the A's bounced right back to win it against reliever Wilbur Wood with Sal Bando singling home the tying run before Larussa delivered the winner.

Mike Paul worked 8 1-3 innings and Rick Austin mopped up as Cleveland hung on to whip Washington. Paul had arrived just hours before game time after being recalled from Wichita of the American Association, and had a four-hitter until the ninth.

Admiral Byrd led five expeditions into the South Pole area.

Montreal Downed 8-4 by Pirates

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates were beginning to wonder if they'd ever win again until little Matty Alou decided to flex his muscles, snapping the East Division leaders out of their untimely skid.

The diminutive Alou, a slashing, line-drive hitter who packs 160 pounds on his 5-foot-9 frame, lashed his first homer of the year Tuesday night—a two-run blast in the sixth inning—which snapped a 1-1 tie, and Willie Stargell followed with another clout with a man on, sending the Pirates to an 8-4 triumph over Montreal.

The Pirates, who had lost six straight, maintained their 1½-game National League East edge over the New York Mets, who went 12 innings before subduing St. Louis 4-3.

The Chicago Cubs dropped to third place, two games back, after absoring a 3-2 defeat in 13 innings at the hands of the red-hot Philadelphia Phillies.

In other NL games, San Francisco stopped Cincinnati 5-3, Los Angeles swept a pair from Atlanta, 6-3, 3-2 and San Diego nipped Houston 2-1 in 10 innings.

In the American League, Minnesota took a doubleheader from Milwaukee, 4-0, 7-1, Detroit outslugged Boston 10-9, Cleveland held off Washington, 4-3, New York downed Baltimore 4-2, Oakland topped Chicago 6-5 and Kansas City blanked California 4-0.

Bob Veale, 8-14, hurled six hitless innings before Bob Bailey homered in the seventh for the Expos. Montreal tagged the left-hander for two more runs, knocking Veale out but John Lamb halted the rally and the Pirates finally had a victory.

Alou, a .312 career hitter, lifted his average to .296, adding a pair of singles. The homer was his first in 1,041 at bats. His last coming on June 4 of last year.

Cleon Jones socked a sacrifice fly in the 12th inning, scoring Wayne Garrett, who opened the inning with his fourth hit off Cardinals' loser Bob Gibson, who was gunning for his 20th victory.

"That was a real big one for us," said Mets' skipper Gil Hodges. "An awful big one. We needed to win one like this." The Mets had lost six of their last eight games.

Gibson, winding up with his sixth loss, gave up 11 hits, the last to Garrett in the 11th. The Mets' third baseman then stole second and went to third on shortstop Milt Ramirez' error before Jones' winning fly ball.

Each team scored in the 11th, the Mets on Ed Kranepool's pinch single—his first hit since April 24—and the Cards on Ted Simmons' two-out single. The fourth-place Cards dropped seven games behind Pittsburgh.

Terry Harmon's two-out pinch single in the 13th inning lifted the Phillies to their fifth straight victory and Philadelphia, in fifth place, remained only 7½ games behind the Pirates.

Don Money's two-run homer in the eighth inning had tied it for the Phils off the Cubs' Ken Holtzman. Ron Santo had a two-run shot for the Cubs in the sixth.

Pinch hitter John Stephenson drilled a two-run double in the eighth inning, sending San Francisco to its fifth straight victory.

The Reds, who have lost four of five, were stopped by Gaylord Perry, 18-13. Bobby Bonds added a homer for the Giants.

Los Angeles got to within 10 games of the West leading Reds behind the pitching of Ray Lamb and Joe Moeller and the slugging of Willie Davis and Jim Lefebvre.

Reliever Lamb copped his fifth victory without a loss in the opener with four scoreless innings and Lefebvre cracked a two-run homer while Davis produced the go-ahead run with a triple.

In the nightcap Moeller, 7-6, scattered five hits and Davis ripped a two-run homer. Orlando Cepeda socked homers in each game for the Braves as Atlanta fell to its sixth straight loss.

Pinch hitter Steve Huntz stroked a 10th inning sacrifice fly for the Padres victory. The Astros had tied it in the ninth on Jimmy Wynn's run-scoring double. Al Ferrara slammed a homer for the Padres in the sixth. Winner Pat Dobson, 11-13, allowed six hits.

Buffalo Bills Depending on O.J. Simpson

By MARVIN R. PIKE
Associated Press Sports Writer

BUFFALO (AP) — The Buffalo Bills don't figure to be a contender in the National Football League this season, but they might finish third in the American Conference's Eastern Division should Miami and Boston falter.

The Bill's fortune depends greatly on how well Coach John Rauch can muster an offense and at the same time rid his team of its mistake-making habit.

Rauch has been trying to build an offense around fabulous O.J. Simpson who, with some help from blockers, could run wild. Without such help last year, Simpson, then a rookie, still ran for 697 yards.

When Simpson takes a rest, the Bills have a second breakaway back, 5-foot-8 Mini Max Anderson.

Quarterbacking still is Buffalo's big problem, as it has been the last couple of years. Veteran Jack Kemp is retired.

Rauch figures to go along with Jim Harris, a strong-throwing 6-foot-4 Negro whose first year of pro football last season was curtailed by injuries. He started one game and played in three others before a knee injury sidelined him. He's now in good health.

Dan Darragh, also injured in 1968 and 1969, is battling Harris for a starting assignment. Both, however, must keep an eye on the Bills untested rookie, Dennis Shaw of San Diego State.

Shaw, the Bills' No. 2 draft choice, got a late start because he held out for $100,000-plus before signing a contract. He led the nation's major college stars in total offense last season with 3,197 yards.

Like many other teams, the Bills are in the rebuilding process. They have at least a half dozen rookies who could fit into Rauch's plans.

Perhaps the most likely freshman to win a season-starting position is defensive end Al Cowlings, the No. 1 draft pick and a teammate of Simpson at Southern California. Cowlings exhibited in preseason action that he has the makings of a pro star.

Other newcomers are tackles Wayne Fowler of Richmond and Jerome Gantt of North Carolina Central, and guard Jim Reilly of Notre Dame. Glenn Alexander of Grambling could wind up as a tight end. The post is occupied by second-year man Willie Grate.

To round out the offense, there's these veterans wide receivers Haven Moses and Marlin Briscoe, tackles Howard Kindig and Paul Costa, guards Angelo Loukas and Joe O'Donnell and possibly Richard Cheek of Auburn. Center Frank Marchlewski seems to have ousted Al Bemiller.

Wayne Patrick and Bill Enyart round out the backfield.

The up-front defense is built around such veterans as left end Ron McDole and tackles Jim Dunaway and Bob Tatarek.

Behind them are linebackers Paul Guidry, Harry Jacobs, Mike Stratton, Dick Cunningham and Edgar Chandler.

At the cornerbacks are Butch Byre, a three-time all-AFL selection, and Bob James, with John Pitts, George Saimes and Pete Richardson on the safety patrol.

F. Broyles Still Moving Hogs Around

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Razorback Coach Frank Broyles said Tuesday that with less than two weeks remaining before the football opener with Stanford, "We're still moving people around ..."

"That may not tell you anything but it sure tells me something," Broyles told a group of touring Southwest Conference sportswriters Tuesday.

"Last year we could look out on the field and see people who had played," Broyles said. "We actually had 20 of 22 starters coming back. This year, we look out there and see people who haven't played. You don't know how they are going to play and I've learned never to count on those things."

The Razorback coach said the "critical" areas were offensive guard and the defensive secondary.

Ronnie Hammers, 6-foot-3, 230, a two-year letterman who has had two knee operations this year, is expected to start at right guard. Mike Griffin, 6-foot-3, 250, and Tom Reed, 6-foot-3, 227, both sophomores, are battling for the left guard spot.

"Last year, a well Hammers and Jerry Dossey were as good as we've had," Broyles said. "Now, we've got a hampered Hammers and a B-team tackle."

Broyles said Jerry Moore, a two-year starter, at defensive halfback, is the only player in the secondary who has a starting job locked up.

"You can list the other eight any way you want to," Broyles said.

If defensive ends Bruce James and Rick Kersey are ready, the Razorbacks' front four in the Sept. 12 nationally televised opener against Stanford will be the same four that started against Texas last December.

Both James and Kersey have had knee surgery. James was injured in a car accident last month and didn't begin practicing until Monday. Kersey injured his ankle Monday and was on crutches Tuesday.

"The offense starts with some good headliners who have proven themselves," Broyles said. "We have five of six specialty players back."

He was referring to wide receivers Chuck Dicus and John Rees, quarterback Bill Montgomery, tailback Bill Burnett and tight end Pat Morrison. Only fullback Bruce Maxwell is gone and Russ Garber, a 6-foot, 215-pounder, is expected to replace him.

"We're very inexperienced in the offensive line," Broyles said. "I don't think we will know how inexperienced until the first game. There's a chance that we'll start two or three sophomores in the offensive line and it's been a long time since we've done that."

This is Arkansas' third year in the pro-type offense and Broyles says the Razorbacks must execute better than the past two years because of the recognition factor.

"The problem I have found with any offense is that you have more success the first year than you do the third and by the fourth year you've either discarded it or revised it drastically," he said.

"My total impression of this team is that we have a group that has played outstanding ball and we have a group that hasn't done anything," Broyles said.

Hambletonian Now Worth $143,630

DU QUOIN, Ill. AP — Timothy T., a Brown colt from Pennsylvania who doesn't like the rough going, faces the challenge of 14 other 3-year-old colts today in the 45th running of the Hambletonian.

The Hambletonian, richest and most glamorous event in harness racing, is worth $143,630 this year with $71,815 awaiting the winner.

The soggy Du Quoin racing strip, soaked by rains Monday, was improving Tuesday and should be in excellent shape for the big race if there is no more rain.

John Simpson Sr., owner of Timothy T., admitted his horse doesn't like rough going but Timothy T. remained a solid 5-2 choice to win the mile trot.

Simpson's son, John Jr., will be driving in his first Hambletonian at the age of 27. The elder Simpson reined Timothy T's sire, Ayres, to victory in the 1964 Hambletonian in the record time of 1:56 4-5.

The race is slated to begin at 2:05 p.m., CDT, with the second heat scheduled an hour later. If a third heat is needed, it will be held another hour later.

Timothy T. has a record of six victories in eight starts and has been brought along carefully by the Simpsons.

Victory Star at an unofficial 9-2 in the non-betting race, Speedy Spin at 5-1, Clayt Hanover at 5-1 and Luther Hanover at 6-1 figure to be the more formidable challengers.

Victory Star will be coming out of the eighth position, Speedy Spin is sixth, Clayt Hanover has the pole and Luther Hanover is in the No. 5 slot.

Victory Star won the Yonkers Futurity and will be driven by Vernon Dancer. Speedy Spin, son of 1963 Hambletonian winner Speedy Scot, will be guided by Frank Ervin. Ervin scored Hambletonian victories with Diller Hanover in 1959 and Kerry Way in 1966.

HOPE, ARKANSAS

Ohio, Mich. Clash Again on Nov. 21

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

Deflated Ohio State powerhouse has a date to remember with Michigan Nov. 21 and Notre Dame's now bowl-conscious Fighting Irish face big pressure on the Midwest college football front.

Big Ten rivals—and co-champion Michigan especially—may find Woody Hayes and his Ohio State Buckeyes in a vindictive 1970 mood after Michigan last Nov. 22 punctured nearly two seasons of Buckeye invincibility.

That 24-12 upset at Ann Arbor, Mich., cost Hayes' squad of super juniors a second straight mythical national title and another undisputed Big Ten crown.

Hayes still has 13 two-season veterans, headed by magical quarterback Rex Kern, who unquestionably will be pointing all season for Michigan's invasion of Ohio State's 82,000-capacity Stadium in a traditional finale Nov. 21.

This time, Ohio State—extolled as one of college football's all-time great aggregations until Michigan snapped the Buckeyes' 22-game winning streak—is eligible for a Rose Bowl appearance.

Notre Dame's Ara Parseghian, who has a remarkable six-season record of 48-9-4, is studiously avoiding any talk of whether the Irish will go bowling a second straight year, now that the school dropped its rigid anti-bowl policy.

The Irish must replace five offensive regulars and four defensive starters, including massive tackle Mike McCoy and linebacker Bob Olson. Additionally, Notre Dame's schedule stiffens considerably this year.

Defensively, the Irish should be strong, hubbed around slick safety Clarence Ellis, linebacker Tim Kelly and McCoy's likely front line successor, 6-5, 245-pound Greg Marx, whose soph year was wiped out by injury.

If Parseghian can remodel his offensive line, the Irish attack still could bristle with veteran quarterback Joe Theismann and Cotton Bowl backs Denny Allan, Andy Huff and Bill Barz, plus ace receiver Tom Gatewood, a sharp nucleus.

In the Big Ten, unveiling new head coaches Bob DeMoss at Purdue and John Jardine at Wisconsin, a preseason poll of mentors confirmed the obvious the championship scrap looms between Ohio State and Michigan.

A formidable challenger, however, could come from among Purdue, Minnesota and Michigan State. Indiana and Iowa rate in the middle of the pack and Illinois, Northwestern and Wisconsin again are question marks.

Ohio State's Buckeyes have, besides the clever Kern, two All-Americans—corner back Jack Tatum and fniddle guard Jim Stillwagon—and 28 other lettermen. Workhorse fullback Jim Otis is gone and Hayes must rebuild the middle of both the offensive and defensive lines.

Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler still has the quarterback, Don Moorehead, who out-maneuvered Kern in Michigan's upset of Ohio State.

The Wolverines return eight defensive starters, headed by rugged end Phil Seymour, and have among six holdover offensive starters such standouts as running backs Bill Taylor and Glenn Doughty and tackles Dan Dierdorf and Jack Harping.

At Purdue, DeMoss supplants retired Jack Mollenkopf needing to find a quarterback replacement for Mike Phipps, who rewrote the Boilermaking passing record book for three seasons.

The choice must come from among no fewer than five candidates, led by senior Jeff Jones or sophomore Gary Danielson. Star receivers Ashley Bell and Stan Brown and linebackers Veno Paraskevas and Jim Teal are kingpins for Purdue which must face Notre Dame, Stanford, Michigan and Ohio State. The Boilermakers lost 13 starters from last year.

Minnesota, traditionally a November toughie under Murray Warmath, also lacks an experienced quarterback with Craig Curry the best bet. Still the Gophers return 15 starters, headed by power running Barry Mayer and Ernie Cook and defensive back Jeff Wright.

Duffy Daugherty's Michigan State team lost 12 starters from last year's disappointing 4-6 club and runs into successive Saturdays against Notre Dame, Ohio State and Michigan. With Bill Triplett shifted to running back, Spartan quarterbacking will be handled by soph George Mihaiu or Mike Rasmussen. Tackle Ron Curl bulwarks a good defense, but the offensive line has only one regular back.

Coach Alex Agase at Northwestern has his most experienced club in seven seasons with seven starters each on offense and defense. The Wildcat attack hinges heavily on quarterback Maurie Daigneau and fullback Mike Adamle.

Indiana's Cinderella trio of quarterback Harry Gonso, halfback John Isenbarger and flanker Jade Butcher has gone, but Coach Johnny Pont still has 12 holdover starters, a strong defense and promising soph quarterbacks in Ted McNulty and Dan Grossman.

At Iowa, Coach Ray Nagle outlasted Athletic Director Forrest Evashevski in a front office showdown, but the Hawkeyes also had star quarterback Larry Lawrence defect to Miami of Florida. Replacing Lawrence will be Roy Bash in a seasoned backfield. This may be Nagle's best defensive club.

Jardine, replacing John Coatta at Wisconsin, could rally the Badgers behind Alan Thompson and quarterback spark by Neil Graff despite over-all lack of depth.

Illinois, winless last year at 0-10, finds Jim Valek, in his fourth season, still trying to rebuild after the Illini slush fund scandal of 1966.

In the Mid-American Conference, quarterbacking will be the name of the game. Defending champion Toledo has Chuck Ealey, who directed the Rockets to a 10-0 over-all record last season. Conference runnerup Bowling Green also has a veteran slinger, Vern Wireman, who set 10 school passing records as the Falcons posted a 4-1 league mark.

Miami of Ohio, finishing third under new coach Bill Mallory last year, has a sharp passing tandem in quarterback Jim Bengala and Mike Palija. Other veteran Mid-American quarterbacks include Steve Skiver at Ohio University; Ted Bowersox at Kent State, and Ted Grignon at Western Michigan.

Midwestern independents hoping to improve losing 1969 records include Marshall (3-7), Northern Illinois (3-7), Dayton (3-7), and Xavier (1-9).

Mississippi May Depend on Offense

By LEROY MORGANTI
Associated Press Sports Writer

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Powered by the irrepressible Archie Manning, Mississippi's awesome offense appears more menacing than ever—but so does a nagging problem that got the Rebels off on the wrong foot last season.

The problem is building a defense that can stop the opposition from controlling the ball and playing an effective game of "keep away" from Manning and his super-charged mates.

Coach John Vaught faced the same pitfall a year ago and the Rebels lost two of their first three games and a shot at the Southeastern Conference title. After the defense solidified, the Rebels were the hottest team in the league and raced past three previously unbeaten conference clubs for a 7-3 record and a Sugar Bowl victory over Arkansas.

"We may have to depend on the offense to carry us for a while, at least until we learn for sure the best placement of some of our younger boys on defense," said Vaught.

He is optimistic the offense can handle the assignment.

"All our starters are back with the exception of Bo Bowen, our fullback, and we've got some pretty good boys fighting for his job," Vaught said. "Right now, Luther Webb is the leader and if he comes through like we hope, we could have our first real power running threat in several years."

Webb is a 212-pound sophomore who was expected to challenge Bowen for the starting assignment last year, but was sidetracked by a leg injury.

In Manning, the Rebels have the complete quarterback and his heroics last season sparked comments that he could be the best to ever play the position.

"What can I say about Manning I haven't said before," said Vaught, who predicted greatness when the 6-3, 204-pounder was a freshman.

Manning threw for nine touchdowns and 1,762 yards while completing 58.1 per cent of his 265 passes last season. In addition he ran 124 times for 502 yards and 24 more scores.

Ole Miss' best receivers are back. Standouts include flankers Vernon Studdard and Buddy Jones, split ends Floyd Franks and Leon Felts; and towering tight end Jim Poole, a 6-5, 205-pound standout as a sophomore last season.

The offensive line is a source of pride to Vaught, who rates it one of the best in the country.

The starters are Wimpy Winther, 250, center; Skip Jernigan, 225, and Bill Coker, 223, guards; and tackles Buddy Mitchell, 230, and Worthy McClure, 235.

While Vaught must rebuild the defense, 18 of his 30 returning veterans earned their letters on defense. But, he is quick to point out, the problem is one of position rather than numbers.

Chief causes of concern are the secondary and the front four, where graduation took a total of five starters and most of the experienced reserves.

The line will be rebuilt around Dennis Coleman, a returning starter who carries all-star credentials. Monsterman Bill Van Devender and cornerback Wyck Neely are top hands returning to the secondary, the only area where sophomores may be able to crack the starting lineup.

The Rebels are top heavy with talent in the crucial linebacking department, causing Vaught to rank the group as one of the strongest he's had in 24 seasons as boss of the team.

Senior Fred Brister is the lone starter returning, but Paul Dongieux and Crowell Armstrong stood out as sophomore reserves a year ago. Senior Jeff Horn and sophomore Tommy Monsour and Bob Bailess provide better than average backup strength.

Men's Softball

In the Christian Athletic Association Men's Softball League, First Baptist finished the second half of play with an unblemished record of seven wins and no loses by beating First Assembly of God 7 to 5.

In the second game 5th & Grady Church of Christ beat Liberty Baptist 8 to 7 and Unity Baptist edged out First Methodist 6 to 5.

These three games closed out a successful season of softball in which about 100 men participated.

The final standings are as follows:

	W	L
First Baptist	7	0
Hope Ch. of Christ	5	2
Calvary Baptist	4	3
5th & Grady Ch. of Christ	4	3
First Methodist	3	4
Unity Baptist	3	4
First Assembly of God	6	1
Liberty Baptist	6	1

Montgomery Has 2 TDs in Scrimmage

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Senior Bill Montgomery hit on 10 of 15 pass attempts for 182 yards and a pair of touchdowns as the Arkansas Razorback first unit defeated the second unit 40-17 in a two-hour scrimmage Tuesday.

The first unit rolled up 408 yards and five touchdown passes against the second unit.

Sophomore Joe Ferguson connected on seven of 12 passes for 224 yards and three touchdowns.

The Razorbacks may have solved their punting problems as sophomore Mike Reppond of Joplin, Mo., averaged 48.4 yards on five kicks.

Coach Frank Broyles said he was "very pleased" with the punting and the passing was the best he had seen this fall.

Hamlet's luck had been bad all evening but things seem to be improving around Elsinore. He had won the first game and found himself looking at a nice 17-point notrump. When the fair Ophelia raised him to game it looked as if he was going to win his first rubber.

Polonius opened the three of hearts. Dummy hit the table and Hamlet feared that things were still rotten in the State of Denmark. There was a 12-point dummy and due to the heart situation he wasn't sure of game.

"To try the clubs or the spades, that is the question" he soliloquized. Hamlet had never heard of the code word ARCH but he counted eight winners and saw that the ninth would have to be found in a black suit. Furthermore he would not have time to try both. He had to get that ninth trick established before Polonius got his heart suit going.

There was no hurry. Hamlet started proceedings by running off the four good diamonds. Polonius had to make one discard. He let the six of clubs go. Poor Yorick sitting East had to find two cards to jettison. A heart came easily but when he played the deuce of spades it looked as if a tooth were being pulled.

It looked to Hamlet as if Polonius surely held the spade ace but he could afford to try out the clubs. A club to the king and a second one back to the ace showed that Yorick had protected that suit thoroughly.

This made it necessary for Hamlet to try the spades. He led toward dummy and had finally won a rubber.

What do you do?

A—Bid four spades. You don't want to commit the hand to either minor suit and a mere bid of four diamonds or clubs is inadequate.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You bid four spades and your partner bids five spades. What do you do now?

Better Stick To Creasy Greens

Some 13,000 people in the United States were made ill by consuming poisonous plants last year. Some of them didn't live to tell the story. Hundreds of common plants are not only dangerous but deadly. Poisonous mushrooms growing in the wild are the best-known culprits, accounting for half the deaths from plant poinoning. But some domesticized house plants are pretty toxic, too.

Stalks and leaves of the same plant may have different effects. The leaves of the rhubarb are strictly off limits. So are the bulbs of the hyacinth and amaryllis. Apple seeds, peach leaves and the foliage and vines of tomatoes and potatoes, are all no-noes.

So for your health's sake, don't eat the daisies - or the hyacinth, daffodil, glory lily, amaryllis, lily-of-the-valley, mountain laurel, azalea, rhodendron, wisteria, magnolia and wild cherry. - Charlotte (N.C.) Observer

And One More Thing

By the year 2000, predicted Arthur Clarke, man will have ended wars, wiped out smog, cleaned up the waters, solved the population problem, developed push-button access to all news and knowledge through a global electronic library, and devised ways for hunanoid machines to wait on him hand and foot.

The major problem, the British scientist and science-fiction writer told a Governor's Conference in Honolulu on the Year 2000, is that man won't have anything left to do.

'Sugar Shack' Opened by Student Council

Although school has just begun, the Hope High School Student Council has been working throughout August to prepare for what could be one of the best years in recent history.

Construction has been completed on the Student Council "Sugar Shack", a concession stand located in Hammons Stadium to be operated during the noon hour for the student's convenience.

A refrigerator was donated by Bud Collier of Collier's Furniture and Appliance to store candy and other perishable items. It will be open from 11:30 to 12:00 and from 12:30 to 1:00 p.m. The Student Council welcomes visitors during these periods.

Freshmen were greeted with "The Welcome Game" to get them acquianted with their school and the Student Council. Each student received a pad of paper, cookies, and cokes from the Sugar Shack on the first day of school. Each teacher was presented with an apple and a card of welcome from the Student Council.

This was the first in a series of projects planned for better faculty-student relations. Principal Bobby Whitmarsh, Assistant Principal Don Sillivan, and Maintenance Supervisor Denver Hornaday were presented with key chains for their help and understanding to the Council.

More Backing for Bumpers

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dale Bumpers, a runoff candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, received Tuesday another endorsement from labor.

The endorsement came from the Community Action Program (CAP) Council of the United Automobile Workers Union. The union represents about 5,000 members in Arkansas.

CAP also endorsed the candidacy of Dr. Bob Riley in his Democratic race against state Rep. James Harrell of Russellville for lieutenant governor.

Arkansas Gained 5.6% in Population

WASHINGTON (AP) — California had the largest gain in the number of residents during the last ten years but Arizona boasted the largest percentage increase, the U.S. Census Bureau reported Tuesday.

The list of the gains and losses of all states was made on the basis of preliminary information received from the 1970 census.

Census Depicts Nation of 200-plus Million Seeking Warm Weather

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The just-completed census sketch of America has a familiar look. It depicts a nation of 200-plus million persons in search of warm weather or suburbia.

The population was put at 179,323,175 by the 1960 census.

The nation's full-scale portrait won't be unveiled until the final, official tally is completed and sent to President Nixon by Dec. 1. But the preliminary figures announced Tuesday by Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans provides a good preview.

It is surprisingly unsurprising, backing up what the Census Bureau had projected all along on the basis of the old 1960 figures and subsequent spot samplings.

It shows:

—A nationwide total of 200,263,721 persons counted so far, and likely to go to between 204 and 205 million by the time such still-uncounted categories as overseas servicemen are added. The bureau had projected 204.8 million for last April 1, the date the census was taken.

—California grew the most, by nearly 4 million to 19.7 million, to replace New York as the most populous state.

—Americans moved toward warm weather. Florida and Texas joined California as states with more than a million population growth, along with the colder but already teeming states of New York and New Jersey. The largest percentage increases were scored by Nevada, with 68.9 per cent, Florida with 34.7 and Arizona with 34.6.

—Suburbanites outnumber residents of inner cities for the first time. Thirteen of the 25 largest cities in the '70 tally had

Current Fashion Trend Is Quietly Affecting the Snuff Industry

By RANDOLPH SCHMID
Associated Press Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — One of my childhood images built up by years of movie-going has been ruined. I took a pinch of snuff, held it to my nose, inhaled sharply, and failed to sneeze.

For some reason the dandies in all the old Erroll Flynn movies always sneezed. I was a little disappointed. It was an interesting experience, though, and surprisingly pleasant.

America's current fashion movement toward many of the styles that were popular long ago seems, although quietly, to be affecting the snuff industry.

The snuff makers estimate that more than six million Americans now use snuff—although less than one per cent of them inhale it.

Tom Vaughan of the Conwood Corp., in Memphis, formerly known as the American Snuff Co., explained that Americans lost their taste for inhaling snuff right after the Revolutionary War. Since then, he said, almost all Americans have used snuff by placing it between the lower lip and gum in their mouth.

Basically snuffs, the dipping kind you put in your mouth, are either dry or moist with moist popular in the North and dry in the South.

Conwood is now test marketing sniffing snuff for the first time in this country, to see if it will catch on. In fact in a move for convenience the company is also selling what it calls "Snuffettes." These are little tablets of compressed snuff which you can pop into your mouth without worrying about spilling all that finely ground tobacco all over the place.

"Snuff which you inhale can be especially good at breaking the ice at a dull party," Vaughan commented, "it brought most of the people around me asking what it was and wanting to try it."

Snuff was being regularly used by the Indians when Columbus landed and, of course, his crew took the habit back to Europe where it took society by storm.

After a grand age in the 17th and 18th centuries snuff use declined, giving way to smoking. It climbed again during World War II, when thousands of servicemen chose to chew rather than show their position with a lighted cigarette.

To the uninitiated, chew snuff tastes rather like mild chewing tobacco, although its first few uses can make you sick.

Starting in 1949 snuff use took a dip and continued steadily down until three years ago, when the trend began reversing itself.

50 Persons Arrested at Blythville

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—About 50 persons were arrested at Blytheville Tuesday night for violation of a curfew imposed by Mayor Tom Little following a rash of incidents Monday night that resulted in the arrest of 29 persons.

Police said most of those arrested Tuesday were issued citations and released.

At least two fires were reported in separate grocery stores in Negro neighborhoods. Police said arson was suspected in both fires.

Six fires were reported Monday night along with numerous reports of rock-throwing and two incidents of gunfire.

Police said several small groups gathered Tuesday night in violation of the curfew but the city was much more calm than Monday night.

Disturbances began in Blytheville several hours after the funeral Monday for Carter Williams, 37, a Negro, who was shot to death Friday at a white-owned grocery store Negroes had been picketing for several weeks in protest of the quality of food at the store.

Ernest Ray, 55, of Blytheville, owner of the grocery, is charged with first-degree murder in connection with Williams' death.

Panthers Vow to Hold Philadelphia Meet as Police 'Load for Bear'

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Black Panthers say they will hold a national convention in Philadelphia this weekend whether the police like it or not —in the streets if necessary.

Police Commissioner Frank L. Rizzo, who canceled all leaves for his 7,000 men and put them on 12-hour shifts, said his department was "loaded for bear." His action followed dawn raids Monday on three Panther centers where police said guns and ammunition were found. Three police raiders were slightly wounded by shotgun fire.

A Panther spokesman said the raids were an attempt by Rizzo "to squash our convention, but it won't work."

Zayd Shakur, who identified himself as Panther information minister for New York State, told a sidewalk news conference in front of one of the raided centers Tuesday:

"We will meet here Saturday and Sunday and Monday as scheduled and no one will stop us.

"If it is necessary to hold it in the streets, we will hold it there. Bet on it, baby."

"I think we will have trouble from the police but so what?" Shakur added.

Fourteen persons found in the Panther centers were being held in $100,000 bail each on charges of conspiracy.

Rizzo said he had no power to prevent the convention. He said this was up to the mayor, governor or the courts.

The gathering, which the Panthers call their "Revolutionary People's Constitutional Convention," is scheduled to open Saturday night in the 4,500-seat gymnasium of Temple University's new sports complex in the heart of the North Philadelphia black ghetto.

Participating will be the militant and radical leaders, both black and white, of the so-called New Left, draft resisters, anti-war protesters, women's liberation representatives, and others advocating swift social change.

some by violence.

Temple has been under fire by several state legislators for permitting use of its state-owned facilities by the Panthers.

The university has given permission for use of the gymnasium for only the opening session, but organizers asked Tuesday for use of the arena Sunday. University officials said this was being considered.

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer expressed his personal opposition to Panther aims and violent rhetoric but refused to cancel the conference at Temple.

"I will not allow the powerful processes of state government to be used as an instrument of repression, to stifle dissent, to abridge freedom of expression," he said recently.

But after a series of weekend shootings in which one Philadelphia policemen was killed and six others wounded, the governor said he might reconsider his decision "if this conference is going to lead to mob action or rioting or destruction."

Cars Damaged in Accident

City police reported an accident at 8:55 this morning when Mrs. Dale Drake pulled out from 19th St. onto Main St. and hit a pickup driven by Odell Parish. Damage was done to both cars Mrs. Drake was charged with failure to yield right-of-way by investigating officer Brown.

Negro Youth Hit Enroute to School

Ivory Lee Conway, 6-year-old Negro boy, was hit by a pickup truck at 7 a.m. Wednesday as he stepped from behind a parked truck at 605 N. Hazel and into the street as he was on his way to school. The child sustained head injuries and was rushed to a local hospital. He has now been transferred to University Hospital in Little Rock.

Driver of the pickup was Henry Ragland of Hope. Ragland was charged with having no driver's license by investigating officers Rowe and Brown.

City police have asked that all drivers exercise caution and watch for small school children, especially in the morning.

Senators Vote Opposite

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and John McClellan, D-Ark., voted on opposite sides Tuesday when the Senate rejected on a 71-22 vote an amendment to prohibit the sending of draftees to Indochina against their will without specification authorization from Congress.

Fulbright voted for the amendment, McClellan voted against it.

Bumpers, Faubus Yell 'Rockefeller' as Push for Votes Steps Up

By JOHN R. STARR

Former Gov. Orval E. Faubus and Dale Bumpers yelled "Rockefeller" at each other Tuesday as the debate in the Democratic primary continued to focus on the man the winner will face in November.

In taping a television program at Little Rock, Bumpers declared that Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller had put Faubus into the primary because Faubus was the only man Rockefeller could beat.

Iraqi, Jordan Troops Close to Fighting

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fighting between Iraqi and Jordanian troops threatened to break out today in the wake of another attempt to assassinate King Hussein. Baghdad Radio said Iraqi troops stationed in Jordan moved into position alongside Palestinian guerrilla forces "following the Jordanian shelling of Palestinian refugee camps and civilian quarters of the capital."

"This obliged the Jordanian army to withhold shooting at Fedayeen (guerrilla) camps and civilian quarters," the broadcast said. It added that Iraqi troops had been alerted "to face actions against Palestinian resistance."

The Iraqi government said Tuesday it had threatened to order its 12,000 troops in Jordan into action against Hussein's army unless Jordanian troops stopped firing on the Palestinians.

Fighting broke out again between Palestinian guerrillas and Jordanian forces in Amman Tuesday night after Amman Radio reported another attempt to assassinate the Jordanian king. The Al Fatah guerrilla organization said in Beirut that 10 persons were killed and 40 wounded during the night, and that sporadic shooting was still going on today.

Military sources in Beirut said that despite Baghdad's claims, the Iraqi troops in Jordan were neither much of a threat to the Jordanian army nor much potential help to the guerrillas. They said the Iraqis were mostly artillery and antiaircraft units, not street fighters, and they added that the 55,000-man Jordanian army is the best in the Arab world and probably could contain the Iraqis.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A just-completed census sketch of American, based on preliminary figures, depicts a nation of 200-plus million persons in search of warm weather or suburbia.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, a principal sponsor of the "end-the-war amendment," says the defeat of the measure was the final step in turning over complete responsibility for the Indochina war to President Nixon. The final vote on the measure was 55-39 against, and preceded the passage of a $19.2 billion military hardware procurement bill.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fourteen senators, including some of President Nixon's staunchest backers, have urged the President to reactivate the stymied Paris peace talks by pressing for a Vietnam cease-fire. Administration spokesmen responded that such proposals have been made but "the other side" seems unwilling to talk meaningfully.

SAIGON (AP) — The United States has moved ahead with two more steps to disengage American forces from Vietnam, transferring a complete helicopter company to the South Vietnamese air force, and confirming that two U.S. combat brigades totaling about 10,000 men are being disbanded.

Fighting between Iraqi and Jordanian troops threatened to break out today after another attempt to assassinate Jordan's King Hussein.

MARION, Ark. (AP) —James L. Estes, 21, a Cummins Prison Farm inmate who escaped Tuesday morning from the State Hospital, was arrested here Tuesday afternoon. He offered no resistance.

Authorities said Estes had been sent to the State Hospital to undergo treatment and fled through a window.

He was serving a three-year sentence for violation of the Arkansas Hot Check Law in Crittenden County.

U.S. Plans to Bring More Forces Home

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The United States pushed ahead today with two new moves to disengage American forces from Vietnam, and the U.S. commander, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, said the ability of the South Vietnamese to defend themselves "has been greatly enhanced."

On the battlefields, U.S. and South Vietnamese forces remained on the alert for attacks to mark North Vietnam's National Day today and the first anniversary Thursday of the death of President Ho Chi Minh. But so far the anticipated upsurge had not occurred. Government forces claimed 51 enemy killed in two clashes in the Mekong Delta 45 and 130 miles southwest of Saigon and said their own casualties were light.

In the latest step in the Vietnamization program, the U.S. army transferred for the first time a complete helicopter company of 31 UH1 Huey helicopters worth nearly $8 million to the South Vietnamese air force. American officers said it was the beginning of a program of transfers of entire helicopter companies.

The transfer ceremony at Bien Hoa Air Base 15 miles northeast of Saigon was held a few hours after an announcement from the U.S. Command confirming a report Tuesday that two American combat brigades totaling about 10,000 men are being disbanded. They are the 199th Light Infantry Brigade and the 3rd Brigade of the 9th Infantry Division.

The helicopter company that was turned over to the Vietnamese, the 260-man 190th Assault Helicopter Company, also is being disbanded.

With U.S. strength in Vietnam reported at 402,300 men as of last Thursday, deactivation of the two brigades and the helicopter company will leave only about 8,000 more men to be removed from the American force to reach the authorized strength of 384,000 men by Oct. 15 which President Nixon set as the goal of the fourth phase of his withdrawal program.

This total is to be cut another 100,008 by next April.

Abrams said in an address at the helicopter transfer ceremony, "The work to make this day possible began many, many months ago with the training of pilots, the training of technicians and the training of ground crews. It's taken a lot of hard work and determination so that this day could happen.

The U.S. Command said there were 25 enemy rocket and mortar attacks from 8 a.m. Tuesday to 8 a.m. today, and that an American A4 Skyhawk fighter-bomber and a helicopter were lost Tuesday. The command said one American was killed and two were wounded in the shelling.

Industries Interested in City Land

The City Board of Directors met Tuesday, September 1. Because of the election on September 8, the meeting was moved up one week.

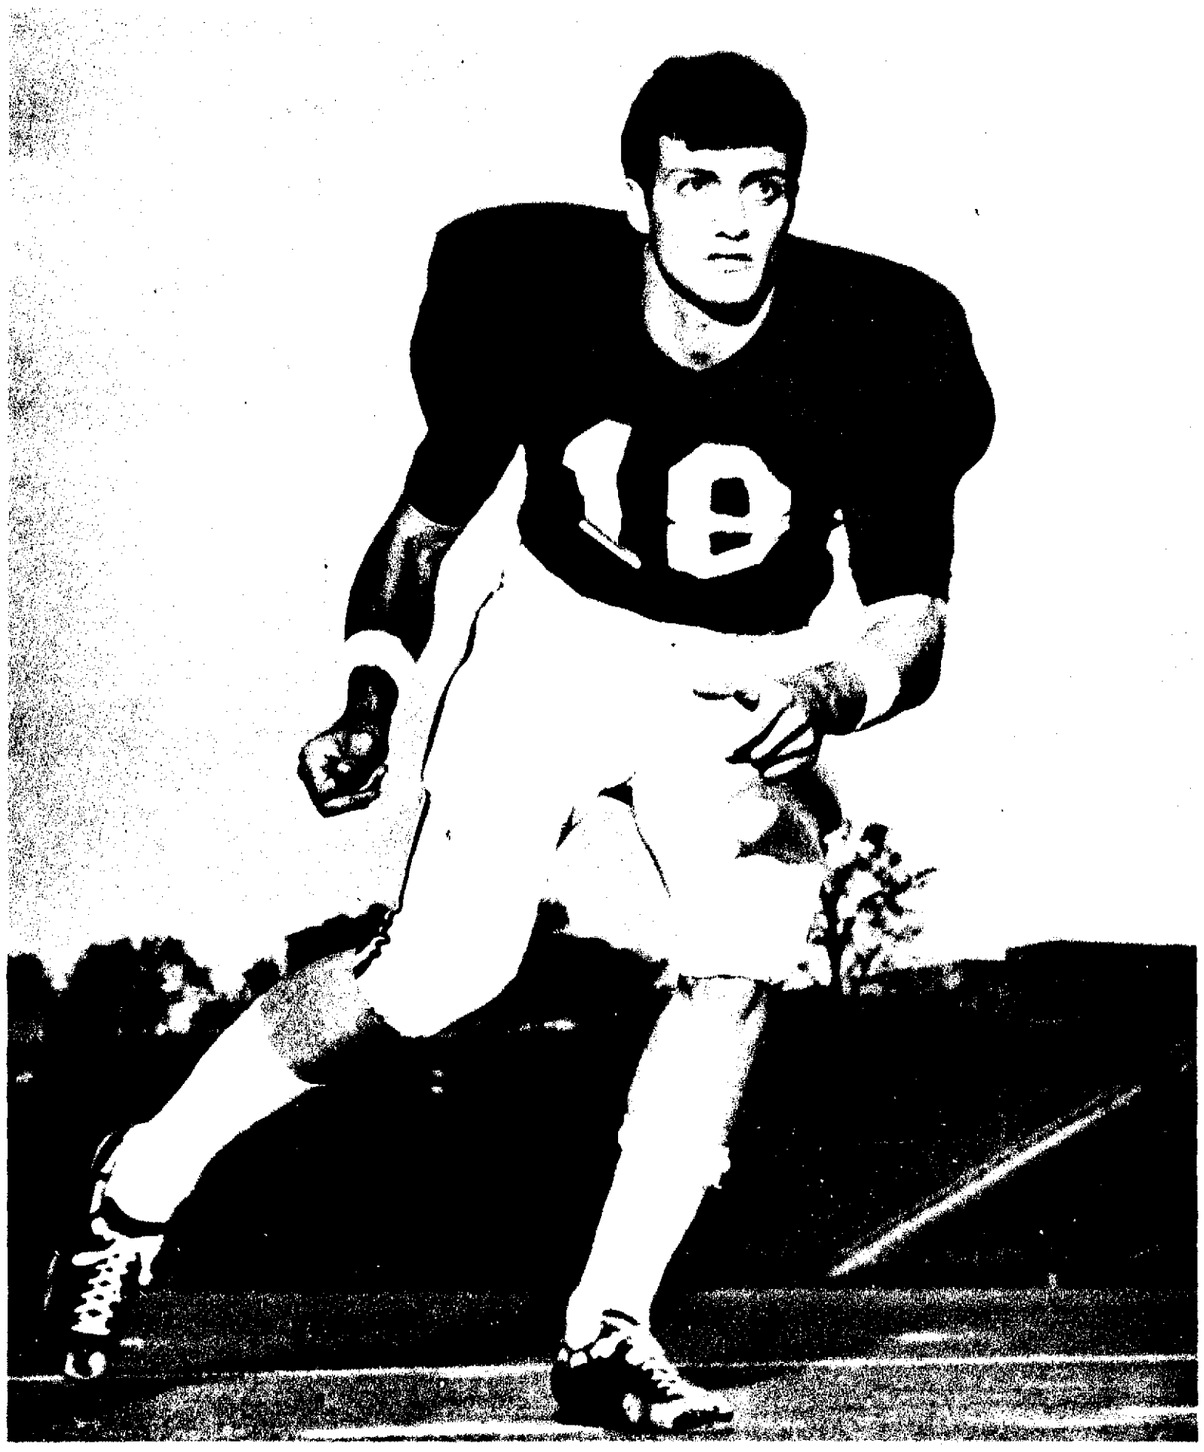

A resolution was passed authorizing Mayor Douglas to execute an agreement between the city and the Federal Aviation Administration. This agreement covers the conditions to be met in the sale of a 132 acre tract of airport property.

A company in St. Louis has asked for an option on this tract and the city attorney is drawing up the option. The option will be submitted to the Board of Directors for approval at a later meeting.

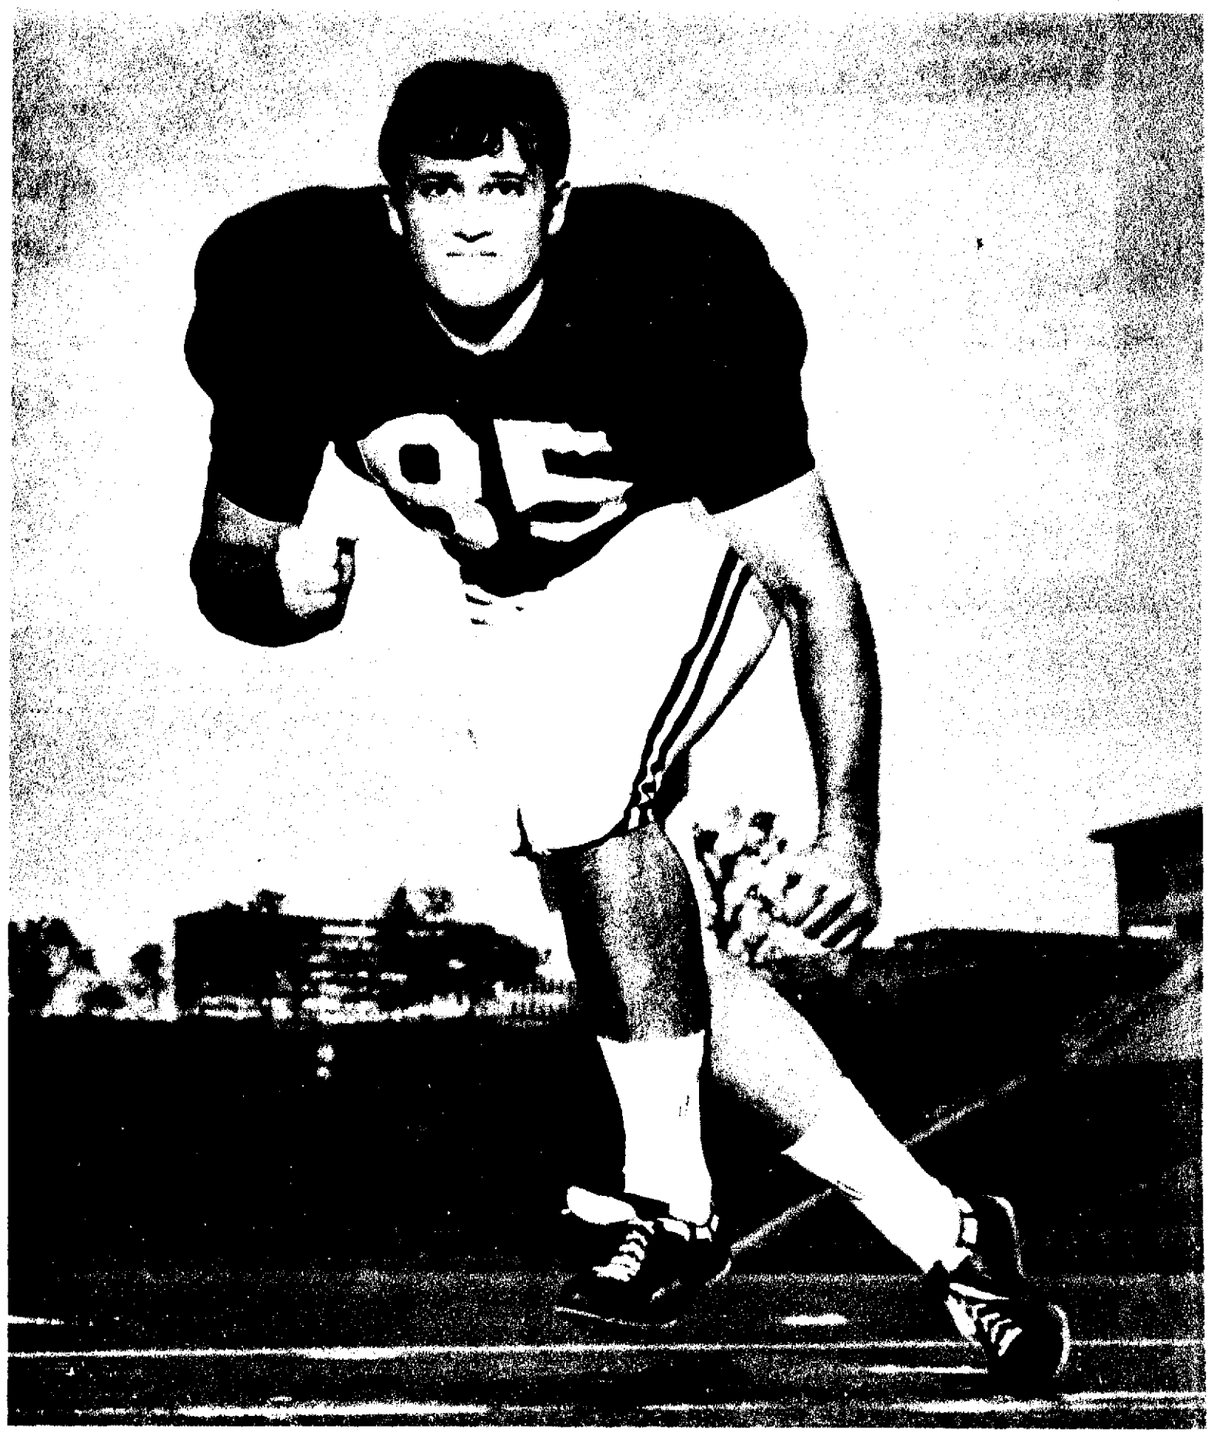

Another industry is interested in another tract of the airport and this was also discussed, but no official action was taken until the industry selects a definite location.

The next scheduled meeting will be September 22.

Bobcats Have 16 Seniors on Squad

By BILL MOORE
Star Sportswriter

SENIORS

Carl Bostic—Wearing number 28 and still growing into his 5-9 frame. "Gaining experience on B-team and has good desire."

Anthony Davis—Wearing number 24 Anthony is one of the better pass defenders, though not large at 5-8. "Showing aggressiveness in the secondary he will help us greatly."

Winston Franks—The biggest player on the team at 6-4 and about 240 pounds, he will wear number 78. "Is learning defensive tackle as a starter and should improve every game."

Steve Halton— Coming to Hope from Prescott, Steve is playing fullback while wearing number 31. "Improving at fullback with quick movement and a good blocker."

Eddie Harwell—In his first outing for football Eddie is playing halfback while wearing number 85, he should gain B-team experience. "Has a size disadvantage but is willing to learn to play."

Stan James—Now playing in the defensive secondary, Stan, is a returning letterman with plenty of B-team experience. Stan wears number 21. "Has experience on pass coverage and learning position well."

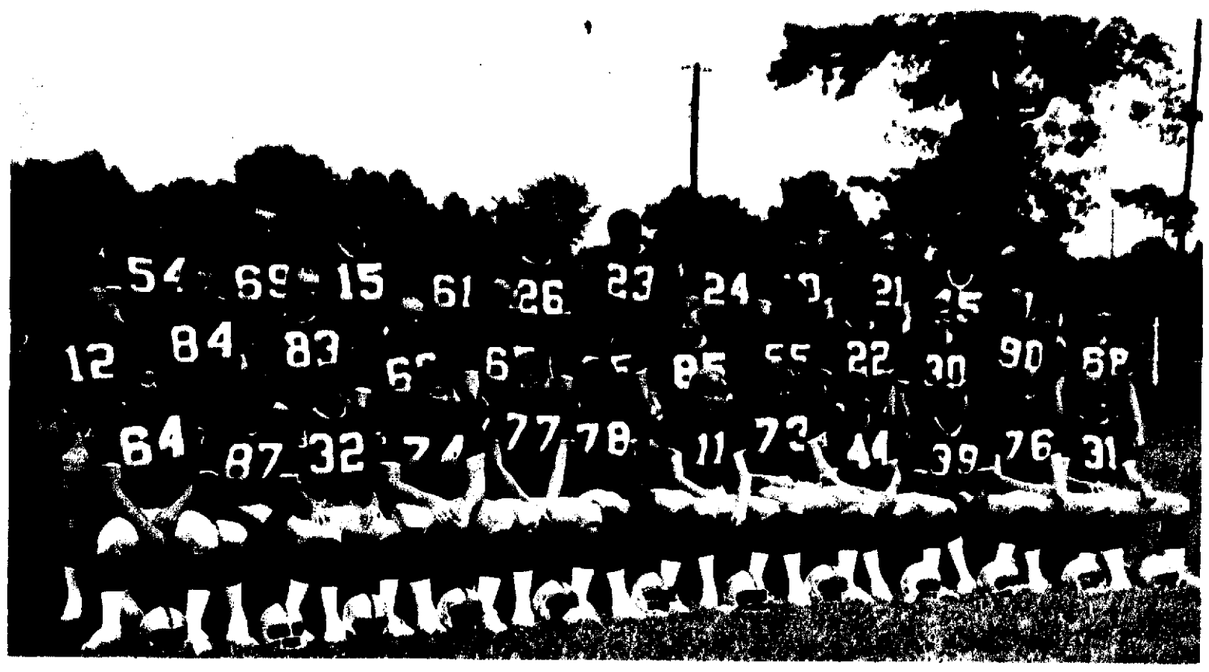

Ronnie Massanelli—As a senior with a years' experience behind him Ronnie will assume quarterbacking duties wearing number 10 and weighing 180 pounds. "Has a good passing arm with good team leadership. Must have confidence."

Roger Newton—Wearing number 23, Roger is much improved since last year and runs plays well. "A good pass catcher he will aid us in the backfield some."

Clifton Peevy—A good solid hitter Clifton is learning noseman. Has had plenty of B-team experience and now moves up to starting position wearing number 89. "Likes to play football and will get his chance."

Johnny Turner—Presently playing at end Johnny has number 39, stands 5-10, and weighs 160 pounds. He also has good speed. "Is expected to help in returning kickoffs and punts while he is also a good receiver."

70-71 Bobcats

Richard Stuart—Playing at center behind Randy Wright, Richard has gained valuable experience on the B-team. He wears number 55 and stands 5-10 at 180 pounds. "A good center working on his blocking with a want to play."

Sidney Waller—Entering his third full season of senior ball, Waller is a hard hitter at 5-10 and 160 pounds, wearing number 25. "A good tackler and pass defender, in on many tackles."

Gary Wheelington—Coming back for his last high school season, Gary will be wearing number 25. He seems to have found a position as defensive halfback and will also see some time as a running back. "Fairly small but makes it up with quickness and speed. Wants to play."

Donnie Williams—In his second year out for football, Donnie is built at 6-0, 200 pounds. Wearing number 68, he has plenty of B-game experience. "Still learning plays at guard he is much improved since last year."

Calvin Willis—Moving to linebacker this year, Calvin will be a two-way starter, at guard also. He is 5-11 and wears number 65. He is putting his quickness to good use. "Is a natural leader and agility to whip the opposition."

Randy Wright—Starting in his last season for the Bobcats, Randy has developed into a good center. He wears number 54 and weighs 180 pounds. "Works well on snaps with quarterbacks and a good blocker.

Juniors

Rodney Burke—Breaking in at starting guard, Rodney wears number 64, stands 5-10 and weighs 175 pounds. "Loves to hit and a good blocker."

Richard Butler—Another newly broken in starter, Richard will be at tackle wearing number 76. He is a large lineman at 5-10, 190 pounds. "Likes to hit with a good future.

Kenneth Ellis—Lacking size but hoping to make it up Kenneth will wear number 27. His size and weight are 5-10, 130 pounds. "A sticker with experience from B-team this year."

Tommy Frazier—Quarterback from the B-team last year, Tommy has improved steadily in his number 11 jersey. Stands 5-9 at 145 pounds. "Has good execution and a capable backup for Massanelli. Fair passing arm but needs confidence."

Steve Harris—A pleasant surprise last year, Steve is well broken in at linebacker. He wears number 15, stands 5-11 and weighs 165 pounds. "A hard hitter thats always near the tackle."

Ralph Martin—Moving to offensive guard, Ralph will see much B-team action. He wears number 61 and weighs 155. "Wants to play football and gaining B-experience."

Tommy Miller—Injured most of last year, Tommy is still hampered by ankle problems. Will see a good bit of action wearing number 30. "A hard runner with desire to play, good receiver also."

Lynn Norton—May have some of the best potential of anyone on squad. Already a defensive starter, Lynn fits well into his number 73 jersey. "Possible all-district. Has good aggressiveness and is a real hard hitter."

David Powers—Working into good shape, "Bubba" is breaking into the defensive line wearing number 74. "At 6-1 and 210 pounds he will help the team with his desire. "AA good effort in practices, he is progressing fast."

Rusty Quillin—Starting for his second season, Rusty is a good player on defense wearing number 22. At 5-10, 160 pounds he will play monster. "A good ball player with aggressiveness. Also a good running back."

Jack Turner—Although only standing 5-8 at 135 pounds, Jack hopes to make his size disadvantage up gaining experience from the B-team. He wears number 32 and is also a running back. "A sticker who wants to see action."

Ray Wheelington—Known in junior high for his fine running abilities, Ray will be in the backfield this year, after moving from defensive halfback. At 5-10, 165 pounds he wears number 44. "A good runner, with plenty of speed and guickness. Can also block."

Rodney Steele—Hampered by a knee injury so far, Rodney hasn't been able to work out full time. When the knee heals he should be playing a good bit with the B-team. "A sticker who wants to play once his knee heals."

Sophomores

Mike Downs—In his first year at Hope, Mike hopes to break into the starting lineup at 6-0 175 pounds while wearing number 83. "Practices hard and has a desire to play."

Wade Harris—Playing guard and wearing number 66, Wade is a solid shot for a starting position in the future. Will gain experience on B-team. "A good hustler with desire to play."

Ricky Hart—Possibly starting at end this year, wearing number 84, Ricky will be seeing a good bit of action. He stands at 6-0 and weighs 170 pounds.

Buddy Ingram—As a quarterback in junior high, Buddy will gain much experience from B-games and possibly play tight end for the seniors. "A good little player with a good attitude."

Melvin Weston—Wearing number 87, Melvin will gain good B-team experience. He has good speed and could be a future starter. "A good receiver with speed, learning plays well."

Panthers Due to Be Tough Again

By BILL MOORE
Star Sportswriter

Last year the Ashdown Panthers wound up 11-2, won the district crown, and made it to the semi-finals of the state play-offs before succumbing to McGeehee, 14-7, and unless the enrollment in Ashdown forces them to move up to AA they should go even farther this year and take all the marbles.

Losing only six starters off of the offense and defense, Coach Richard Hays will welcome back sixteen starters from the '69 squad, including four who were chosen to the all-district team.

Mike Carroll, a 175 pound junior, will do most of the signal calling, either throwing to Bob Guthrie or handing off to fullback Jimmy Eskew. Both men were chosen to the all-district team.

Another runner figured to help the Panther running attack is tailback Louis Terry, a 155 pound senior while junior, David Pickett, a tall end with fairly good hands will see plenty of action.

The offensive line seems to be in good order with Bill Walker (200) at center, and all-district Jim Coston (235) and Mack Scott (190) at both tackles. Richard Peacock, who was injured all of last year should be solid at guard and Bobby Thrash may be at the other.

Probably using the winged "T", the defense should be solid once again with some good size and speed.

Some of the districts best are linebackers Guthrie and Eskew, both two way starters. Another all-district selection, defensive end Ernest Rhone, should continue to improve his playing and Mike Garner is certain to fill in at monster man.

With possibly the best all-round team in the district, the Panthers certainly have one of the toughest teams, and if, for some reason, they don't win district, it will be one of the worst upsets in the state.

COACH GAYLORD SOLOMAN

Beginning his fourth year at the Hope Schools, Coach Gaylord Soloman remains in charge of junior high athletics.

Also an assistant coach for the senior high during two - a - days, Soloman, 26, handles the scouting assignments for future Bobcat opponents.

Graduating from Ouachita Baptist University in 1966, where he was selected on two straight All - AIC teams, Soloman is a native of Waldron.

Married to the former Joness Watts of Wynne, they are members of the First Baptist Church.

TEXAS LONGHORNS

DARRELL ROYAL

There aren't many times when a football coach can attain success by merely asking his team for an encore performance, but this is the situation which awaits Darrell Royal and his national champion Texas Longhorns. Plugging a few gaps created by graduation and healing several injuries are Royal's chief tasks as he tries to herd the Steers through another undefeated season, and the return of 35 lettermen should make his job a little easier.

Of top priority is finding a quarterback to replace James Street. Eddie Phillips has the job lined up at present. But, he will get a push from rookie Gary Keithley. Billy Dale will take over at halfback from Ted Koy while All-America Steve Worster holds the fort at fullback. Top ground-gainer Jim Bertelsen returns at left halfback.

Charles (Cotton) Speyrer has another season at split-end. Daryl Comer and Tommy Woodard, both injured, will battle for the tight-end slot. Other veterans on the forward wall include Bobby Wuensch, Bobby Mitchell and Mike Dean

Defensively, six starters must be replaced, but Royal still can plan on ends Bill Atessis and David Arledge and linebackers Scott Henderson, Bill Zapalac and Stan Mauldin. Defensive tackles Scott Palmer and Carl White will also find their places. If Royal has a weakness, it may be in the secondary where Danny Lester is the only returning starter.

Last year: Football fans everywhere clung to their seats as the Longhorns overcame a 14-point deficit to defeat Arkansas, 15-14, and win the National championship. The Hogs, thanks to a bone-jarring defense scored first on a plunge by Bill Burnett. They added a second tally on a 29-yard pass from Bill Montgomery to Chuck Dicus. Texas scored on the first play of the final period as James Street weaved his way 42 yards and a touchdown and ran for the two-point conversion. Following the pressure-packed 44-yard fourth down pass to Randy Peschel, Jim Bertelsen evened the score with a touchdown, and Happy Feller responded with the winning extra point.

Pro Charts

BY MURRAY OLDERMAN

National Conference:

MINNESOTA

Grant

PROSPECTUS—Suddenly from super team which swept through 12 straight games, Vikes no longer loom awesome. Still good, of course, because Coach Bud Grant has them channeled for fundamentally solid football. But suffering success pangs that's created some unrest on pay day. Reflected in long holdouts. May affect performance to degree.

Eller

OFFENSE

PASSING—Early propaganda vows they'll go with Gary Cuozzo. He's bright, mechanically impeccable, but he's been prone to injury and hasn't shown flair for lifting team. So they'll wait on Joe Kapp, the reluctant Super Mex who doesn't throw spirals, challenges tackles but has indomitable spark. Rating—B+

RECEIVING—Gene Washington has that look of greatness as TD threat. Tough to cover one-on-one. Would be ideal if they had another near as good to take pressure off him. Either John Henderson or Bob Grim, or both, will be his wide mate. John Beasley, with relief from Kent Kramer, offers solid blocking at tight end. Rating—B+

RUNNING—Bill Brown, Dave Osborn fit mold of Grant football—tough, grinding, effective. And for hard runners they add bonus of being good receivers coming out of backfield. There's depth and possibility of exciting breakaways from Clint Jones, Oscar Reed, who'll probably log more playing time than in past. Rating—B+

LINE—Danger of some creakiness setting in. Center Mick Tingelhoff, tackle Grady Alderman have more than 20 years combined experience. But why worry about decrepitude till it happens? Wave of future is right tackle Ron Yary, a good one. Fine set of guards in Jim Vellone, Milt Sunde, Ed White. Rating—B

DEFENSE

LINE—The Purple Gang will be all revved up to harass quarterbacks when Carl Eller bows to inevitable (and signs contract). He's all-pro pace-setter, but insiders will tell you toughest lineman on club is Alan Page, who plays tackle or end. Right end Jim Marshall, veteran of group, comes off great year in '69. Got new face who'll help in rookie John Ward. Rating—A

LINEBACKING—Hard-hitting group paced by middle man Lonnie Warwick. In orthodox situations Roy Winston, Wally Hilgenberg man the corners. On pass prevent plays, Winston ducks out, and Dale Hackbart, spare safety, comes in to create five-man secondary. Mike McGill is extra wheel if injury hits anybody. Rating—B+

SECONDARY—Opportunistic bunch, with free safety Paul Krause providing flexibility for double coverage. No one's ever been impressed with single coverage ability of the corner men, Earsell Mackbee and Ed Sharockman. Ed actually gave way to Bobby Bryant last year until latter got hurt. Karl Kassulke has Charley West pushing him at strong safety. Rating—B—

KICKING—Tom McNeill getting shot at punting chores handled last year by spare QB Bob Lee. Fred Cox had fine year as field goal booter. Rating—B+

COACH RONNIE HIGGINS

Beginning his third year as head coach of the Bobcats is Ronnie Higgins, now in his fifth year of coaching.

Coach Higgins, now 27, came to the Hope staff in 1967 after serving as an assistant at Fordyce for a year.

A graduate of Warren High School, Coach Higgins was a three-time All-AIC fullback at Arkansas A&M, also making the small college All-America team his senior year.

He is married to the former Sherry Lovett of Crossett and they are members of the First Baptist Church.

Leopards Should Be Lot Better

By BILL MOORE
Star Sportswriter

After a disappointing season last year, with only a 3-8 record, the DeQueen Leopards should bounce back and possibly reverse that record if everything clicks right.

Leopard Coach Wayne Freppon lost nine seniors to graduation last year, returning only six starters, but with plenty of juniors and seniors, could easily put together a winning season.

Senior quarterback Larry Miller will be handling the controls this year, probably throwing to Hubert Gilmore, who is established at end. Halfback Gary Bell, a junior, figures to be a threat with some solid running and receiving, if the offensive line is improved.

Only one member of last year's interior offensive line returns, 205 pound, senior guard, Randy Davis. He will be joined by Mike Hooker, who has broken in at center, and either Larry Dixon or Steve Campbell at the other guard.

The defense should be the biggest test for the Leopards with only three veterans returning, two of them as two way starters.

Junior Glenn Marshall should be at halfback with 220 pound Lonnie Staggs at defensive tackle and Jerry House at defensive end.

DeQueen should have fairly good depth unless injuries occur and that hurts anyone. With an improved defensive line, the Leopards could provide some pretty fair defensive games for opponents.

Junior Penney will do the punting chores with Mike Hookes, also being counted on for kick-offs and extra points.

Although AA powerhouses Hope and Magnolia have been dropped from the schedule Idabel, Oklahoma, a new opponent is expected to bring a tough game, in which DeQueen will be tested.

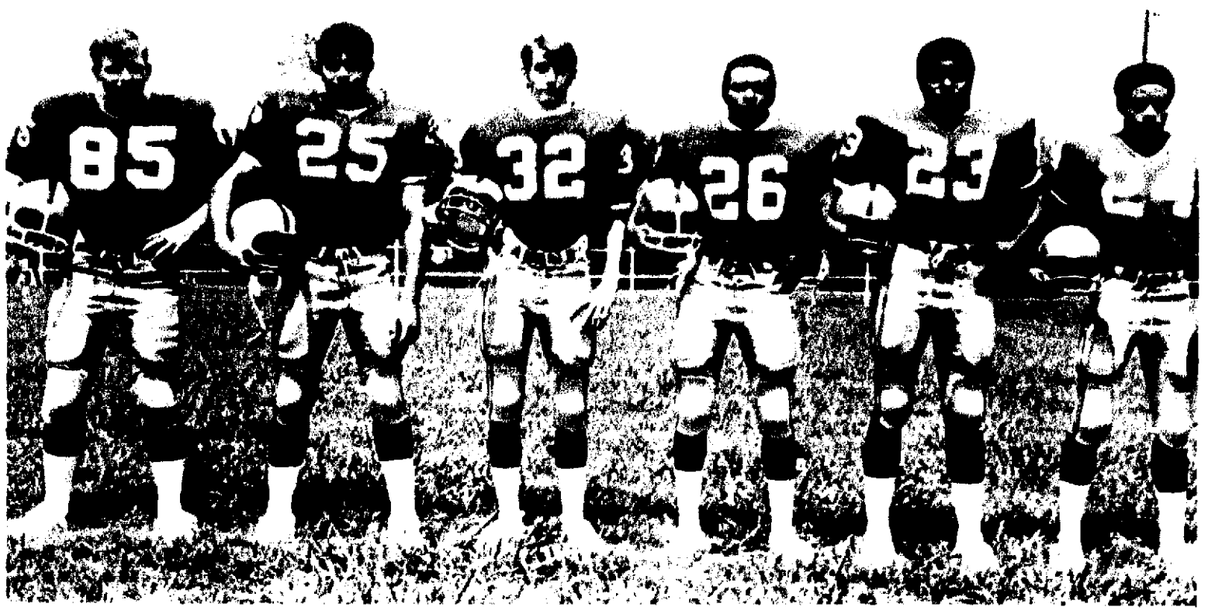

Two top sophomore prospects for the Leopards will be James Cobb and Doug Yates.

DeQueen will be playing a tough schedule this year, and the Leopards should not finish above Ashdown, Nashville, and Prescott.

Panthers, Lincoln Consolidated

By BILL MOORE
Star Sportswriter

With the consolidation of Camden Lincoln into Camden High School, the Panthers are predicted to have ample depth for a good running attack, although a little more size could be added.

Coach George Burke has predicted that his team will post a better season than in '69 with a 7-4 mark. With many returning lettermen, Camden's chances are somewhat better this year, but they are not predicted for any title competition.

Out most of last year with an injury, quarterback Jim Foyil will return with his good speed and an able passing arm. Most of Camdens' running backs are fairly quick but small, with the exception of Bill Meek, a 185 pound senior running back.

Other backfield returnees include 140 pound junior halfback Thomas Willis, with plenty of depth provided by senior halfback Thomas Dansby, who saw much action as a junior.

Returning at end will be senior Chip Reyford, a 165 pounder who has good hands while Joe Mccaffery will use his 170 pounds at tackle. Probable starting guards will be Resken Dowdy and Ronnie Beaver, both good junior blockers with plenty of power.

Left tackle is solid with Pat McQuire, the largest player at 190 pounds, who is called by his coaches as a possible all-district prospect.

The defense is solid losing only three starters to graduation. In all, with six seniors and two juniors returning some of the pressure should be eased a bit unless injuries begin to occur.

Anchoring the defense is 195 pound defensive end Calvin Johnson, a senior and all-district player with Robert Gulley, also an all-district, holding down the other end with his 160 pounds.

Rugged James Dishroom is slated at linebacker with Bill Meek his possible counterpart. Dishroom is considered quick and aggressive weighing 165 pounds as a senior, while Meek is a possible two-way starter already the number one fullback.

John Pickett is expected to see much action with possibly Rodney Platt and Bob Garner breaking into the lineup.

Camden basicly runs four different offensive sets. They are the: Texas Y, Slot, Oklahoma Diamond, and the strong set, which tries to outmaneuver the defense.

The kicking game is fairly strong with the Panthers using a criss-cross pattern on kickoff and punt returns.

Basicly the Panthers are small, quick, have plenty of depth, and are confident of a winning season, but do not have the overall size to power their way to a district championship. They will probably settle for third or fourth.

Navy Arsenal Robbed by Gunman

Gunmen invaded a Navy arsenal about two miles from a nuclear weapons storage point and escaped with firearms and ammunition while five sailors they had tied up watched helplessly, the FBI reports.

The robbery Sunday at the Cecil Field Naval Air Station was pulled off by raiders armed with pistols, the FBI said. The exact number of raiders has not been determined but at least three were involved, a FBI spokesman reported.

An investigation revealed that the intruders remained for 90 minutes at the arsenal, located about two miles from the Cecil Field storage point for nuclear weapons.

Authorities said the arsenal is guarded by a civilian security force employed by the Defense Department.

An FBI agent said none of the sailors saw all of the early morning Negro intruders. Investigators said one of the group may have been a woman or a man wearing a wig.

Arkadelphia Could Be the Best Yet

By BILL MOORE
Star Sportswriter

Again this year Coach Frank Spainhour returns a top-notch ballclub with eighteen returning lettermen, most of them starters from last years 10-1 team, with the only loss coming from the 4AA Champions Hope Bobcats.

Led by 6-3 senior quarterback Bill Vining, whom Spainhour regards as a top college prospect, the Badgers should be tops in the running for the 4AA title and state playoffs championship.

Returning with Vining in the backfield will be junior speedsters Luther Guinn and Gary Anderson, both who are very speedy and regional sprint champions. Guinn is a quick running back with Anderson a good-sized hard blocking fullback.

Vining's main receiver will be 175 pound senior end Bill Hurley, who also provides Arkadelphia with one of the best kicking games in the league, while the other end will be held down by Scott Thomas, a 155 pound senior.

Jimmy Hankins, a 205 pound senior will start at one tackle with senior Steve Overstrect expected to fill in the other position. Guards expected to see a lot of action will be Brent Bridges, Donnie Wilson, and Deryl Godwin with the center probably being 185 pound senior Dennis Parker.

Last year Arkadelphia was second in district scoring and with the offensive material they have this year, they should be near the top again this year.

Arkadelphia basically runs the slot, strong, and "I" slot formations, switching back and forth to mix up the defense.

Defensively, the Badgers return seven starters from last years' team which was also second in 4AA statistics. Allowing only 96 points in eleven games last season, the defense should be as tough and possibly allow fewer points this year.

Running the monster defense, the returning monster man will be Jackie Yeager, a 180 pound all-district and still improving.

All three secondary men return this year. Seniors Mike McGuire and Adlai Johnson along with junior Danny Melton will be the ace men of the defensive secondary, all three who are quick and reasonably large.

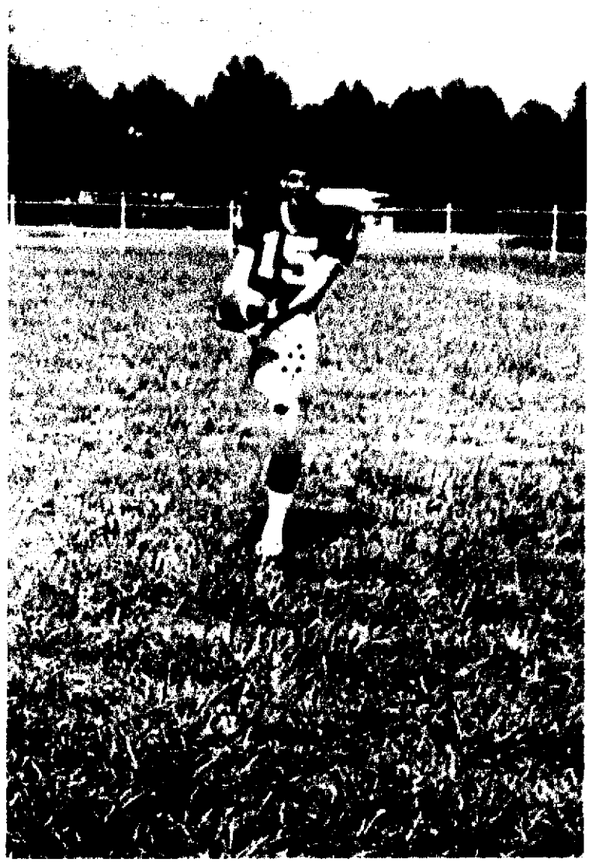

Returning at noseman will be two-way starter Dennis Parker, also the center, with the linebackers still unsure of. Last years' linebackers, Clarence Murch and Wayne Anderson are gone and hopefully replacements will be found to fill these two key positions.

Anchor end Ronnie Riggle, a 195 pound senior, will return with his conterpart Ricky Tucker, the 165 pound blood end to help in covering on the end sweeps.

Both of last years tackles have graduated and it will be hard trying to find replacements for them. Possible help will come from seniors Wallace Reed and Edsel Danner.

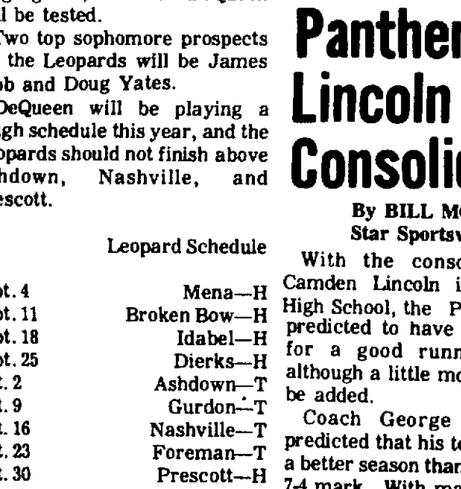

Arkadelphia's kicking game is one of the best. They kick the ball high and deep and on returns try to run the ball down the middle after crossing up to different sides.

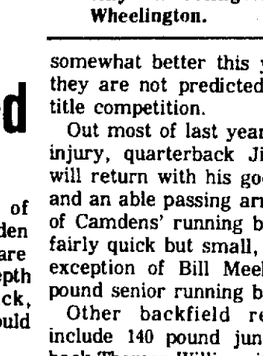

Offhand Arkadelphia has three things going for them: speed, passing, and plenty of experience. The Badgers could possibly go 13-0 this year if they survive through two additional AA state playoffs, but first they will have to get there.

Pro Cornerbacks Now in Spotlight

NEW YORK (NEA) — "When I returned to pro football in 1968 after an interval of six years," Paul Brown says, "the biggest single change I saw was the great variety of defenses every team was using. Since I've been at Cincinnati, the trend has increased to the point where the offense never knows what to expect on any given play."

A panel of top coaches is in complete agreement with Brown, who was the most successful man in the business during his 16 seasons with Cleveland in the NFL and the All American Conference. Defense now is recognized as the backbone of a winning team.

"Look at it this way," Brown explains. "When we play Kansas City, they run about four plays to our one. Why? Their defense takes the ball away from us. That's what makes their offense look so effective."

Bud Grant, whose Minnesota Vikings won the NFL title last year by limiting the opposition to an average of 10 points per game, admits the shoe pinches when it's on the other foot. "You never know what you're going to run into when you have the ball because the defense is so versatile. Years ago it kept to one setup all day. That's what made Johnny Unitas' audibles famous. He changed his signals on the line of scrimmage to take advantage of openings he saw in the other team's alignment, but he'll tell you he uses few audibles now because defenses are much harder to read."

The Kansas City "stack" exploited by Hank Stram in winning the last Superbowl has inspired many defensive variations. "The stack simply means that at least one linebacker, usually Willie Lanier, is stationed behind a defensive tackle who plays on the nose of the center," Stram explains. "Sometimes either one or both of the other linebackers, Bobby Bell and Jim Lynch, also are stacked behind men in the front row.

"The advantage of this alignment is that the offense doesn't know whether the linebackers will peel off to the right or left, or barge in straight ahead when the ball is snapped. The big idea of the stack is to get away from even spacing of the defensive linemen, which was patterned after the Giant system for many years, and throw a monkey wrench into the offense's blocking assignments with odd spacing."

An interesting offshoot of the emphasis on defense is the emergence of cornerbacks as the new glamor boys of the pro game. Frontline units have been featured and given colorful nicknames—the Rams' Fearsome Foursome and the Vikings' Purple People Eaters. Several years ago linebackers held the center of attention. Today, the spotlight is on cornerbacks, the men charged with defending against short passes in the flat and deep throws downfield.

"There's no question that the cornerback has the greatest single responsibility of any player on the field," Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys, asserts. "If he makes a mistake, you're dead."

"You can have a great front four, exceptional linebackers and fine safety men, but if you have two weak cornerbacks people are going to kill you," Stram says tersely.

The heavy pressure on cornerbacks has prompted all the coaches in the survey to adopt the zone defense in the secondary, although they admit they would prefer to use man-to-man coverage.

"You get much tighter protection with the man-to-man," Tom Fears of the New Orleans Saints, declares, "but the trouble is you must have top personnel. If your cornerback is handling a fast receiver alone and he's beaten on a pass, it's a touchdown. In the zone defense, there are other people to help out and maybe it's not a TD."

"Ideally, you'd like to sit back and play man-to-man," Grant confides. "It's easier to teach and there's less margin for error, but it requires a combination of talents not many players possess. We're primarily a zone team because our personnel is not as fast or as good as the man-to-man demands. I'm not giving away a trade secret because we mix them up. Every team does. It's the only remedy for a constant headache."

Nashville Looking for Quarterback

By BILL MOORE
Star Sportswriter

The key to a good offense is a good, proven, and capable quarterback, and the Nashville Scrappers really have none.

Head coach Edwin Dale will have many returning starters, including nine on offense, who will be working to better last years' record of 5-5 and possibly a run at the district title. Many think Nashville has one of the best chances to oust Ashdown from the top spot this year.

Quarterback could be a big problem for the Scrappers if Junior Randy Walston doesn't come through, but the running game is established as one of the best anywhere.

Senior Alan Ray is one of the best runners anywhere, compiling over 1,000 yards last year, and his speed is unquestioned anywhere. Alan's brother, Larry Ray, is established as a blockbusting fullback, and is slated to start beside 160 pound Roger Echols, a senior, who is a smashing blocker on end sweeps for the Scrappers.

The line is looked upon as fairly good sized and strong with Randy Jamison, 180 pound center, tackles Ricky McCullough (170) and Billy Mac Bollinger (166), and guards Terry Boyea and Stanley Castlebury.

With some two way starters on defense such as Alan Ray, Jimmy Rice, Roger Echols, Randy Jamison, and Hal Darling, the Scrappers defense boasts one of the toughest eleven to move the ball against and they should hold the opposition down on the scoreboard. The kicking department provides one of the leagues best in Randy Walston.

Provided the Scrappers are barred from a number of key injuries, as was the case last year, and the offensive punch is there, Nashville could be a serious title contender, but will probably have to settle for a second place fight with Prescott.

Cardinals in Process Rebuilding

By BILL MOORE
Star Sportswriter

Tumbling from 9-2 in 1968 to a 6-5 record last year, which was one of the poorest showings by the Camden-Fairview Cardinals in recent years, the outlook on this season is not too bright.

Coach George Branch has stated that after losing twelve seniors and returning only thirteen leetermen, and with the lack of experience and depth it will be surprising to match last years' record.

The weakest point is on offense whose only guards Steve Crumpler (175) and Roy Wood (205) return. While both are seniors, Wood will also see duty at linebacker and Crumpler is called one of the best blockers around the area.

Replacing Lewis Pryor at quarterback could be a problem, but Steven Johnson, moved from halfback, gets the nod and will be taking the snap from Bennie Vestel, a 175 pound center. Johnson also has backfield help in tailback Paul Gillespie, while either Robert Walker or Gerald Jones will start at fullback.

A good passing attack is hoped for to put the Cardinals on the scoreboard and with ends Steve Burroughs (158) and Charlie Robertson (160) it could very well work, although both have limited experience.

On defense the situation calls for filling key openings in the line and secondary if the defense is to be consistant.

The tackles should be solid with Louis Stough and Mike Sevier while Gerald Jones will also play noseman. Added strength on the ends could be improved while in the secondary everything is up for grabs. This seems to be a glaring problem against passes and hardly any experience is available.

Other performers expected to fill key positions are Terry Hankins, David Wheelington, David Kelley, and John Sevier.

Fairview will probably be doing marvelous to finish above third place, but with a good crop of sophomores to provide some depth, could finish as good as 7-4.

Wolves Again in Running for Title

Missing the 7-A district championship for several years now by no more than a whisker, the Prescott Curly Wolves again have a good shot to make it to the top.

Numbering about 40 this year, Prescott will use many juniors and seniors to pave the way with plenty of sophomores for added depth at most positions. There should be fairly good size with some power running available.

Coach Charles Montgomery, in his third year as head coach, will welcome back many returning lettermen from last years overall 5-6 team, who had an ambitious schedule with a 4-1 in district play.

Little Freddie Wren, a small 135 pound junior will take over at quarterback. His passing is still unproven, though he does throw fairly well. He can be backed up by Randy Koger, a 155 pound senior.

Starting at fullback, will be 190 pounder senior Timmy Grimes. Grimes is expected to be picked on the all-district and possible all-state selections should he be consistant. His running mate in the backfield will be 150 pound Joseph Johnson, a senior with some good experience.

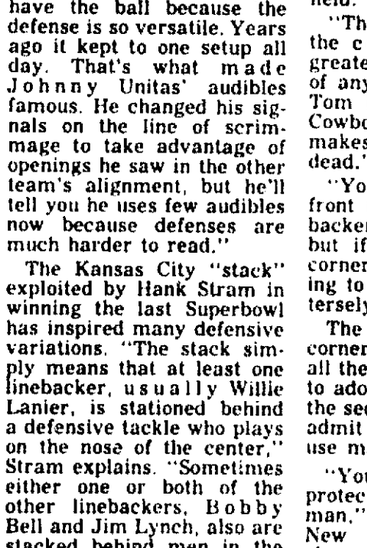

George Dewoody and Allen Loe will be the primary receivers, both small but elusive once they get the ball.

On defense the Curly Wolves will have Koger returning along with Mike Payne, Jimmy Williams and John Coe to lead the fearsome attack.

Coach Montgomery expresses the importance of the first few games will determine the season for the Curly Wolves. One of the toughest will be against the 4 AA champion Hope Bobcats, a AA powerhouse that returns many lettermen.

Likes Hope Again for Dist. Title

By BILL MOORE
Star Sportswriter

Having to hustle to match last years' predictions, we will have to go out on a limb, because there are many good teams with good personnel returning.

Last year, the 4AA championship was won by the 4AA west winner, Hope Bobcats, while the big shootout was won by the Texas Longhorns, but this year that may change.

The Bobcats will again be strong, with experience, determination, and leadership to bring them another title. But they may have to pay the price to get the trophy with such notable teams as Arkadelphia, Camden, Malvern, and possibly even Magnolia.

Here are the predicted finishes for the newly aligned 4AA, the AIC, and the Southwest Conference, Here we go.

Region 4 -AA
Western Division

1. Hope Bobcats
2. Arkadelphia Badgers
3. Camden Panthers
4. Malvern Leopards

RICE OWLS

BO HAGAN

A total of 39 returning lettermen and the installation of AstroTurf will help give Rice coach Bo Hagan a lot of optimism following a 3-7 year in 1969. Much of the Rice success will depend upon position changes in the offensive backfield where Hagan found himself with two outstanding quarterbacks, Phillip Wood and Stahle Vincent. The pair alternated during their first season.

In an effort to utilize the talents of both in addition to finding a break-away threat at tailback, Hagan settled on Wood at quarterback and switched Vincent to tailback. Mike Spruill, seventh last year in conference rushing, will move from tailback to fullback.

Senior tackles Bill Batchelor, in a new position this year, and Brownie Wheless, an all-star candidate at 6-5, 260-pounds, anchor the offensive line in addition to guards Paul Strahan and David Stockwell, another pair of two-year lettermen who are trying new places. The starting three pass receivers graduated but Hagan hopes that newcomer Gary Butler can fill the gap at tight-end.

Graduation and poor grades cost the Owls two players from their defensive unit, but the remaining nine will rally around All-Conference guard Roger Roitsch, a 6-2, 235-pounder. Bucky Allhouse and Jack Faubion give the Owls experience and speed in the secondary.

Last year: A pair of touchdowns by tailback Bill Burnett enabled the Razorbacks to pull away from a 3-3 first period deadlock and take a 30-6 victory in Houston. Kicker Bill McClard and quarterbacks Bill Montgomery, who teamed up with flanker John Rees, and John Eichler scored the other points as the Hogs padded their slim 10-6 halftime advantage.

COACH WILLIE TATE

Serving as Head Assistant football coach in football, Coach Willie Tate, 27, graduated from Arkansas AM&N and played offensive guard, gaining honors as All - Conference and the 1966 Small College All - America team.

Also Coach Tate made All - Conference as a baseball pitcher for AM&M.

Graduating from Peake High School in Arkadelphia, where he lettered in football and basketball, he and his family now live at 818 South Laurel Street in Hope.

Leopards Have Good Squad Back

By BILL MOORE
Star Sportswriter

With a good squad, including 26 lettermen from a 4-6 season, Coach David Alpe is hoping that the Malvern Leopards can use the leadership to lead the way to a bright and winning season.

The lack of depth could be a key problem though and the Leopards hope that everything will fall in place. They will use their major strength, which is experience, to keep things in the camp from getting low.

One of the best running backs in district is 200 pound senior tailback, Roy McLemore, a 1969 All - District choice. Rushing for over 1,100 yards last year as a junior, he is one of the best backs that Malvern has ever had.

David Pennington will resume his duties at quarterback with help from Joe Smith and Ervin Nichola.

Returning five veteran lineman they will be led by veteran senior center Glen Jackson a 220 pounder. Help at the guards will be Doug Shuffield a 155 pound senior and Ricky Starks.

Both tackles return in senior Ronnie Jones and junior Malcom Mowdy. Both weigh about 180 and are fairly big.

Returning Ronnie Brandon is the only sure starter at end, weighing 170 pounds in his senior year. No one really knows yet who will get the other starting spot.

The defense returns seven starters led by rugged noseguard Ricky Starks. The linebackers are Ronnie Hall, a 150 pound senior and Ronnie Jones, 175 pound senior.

With front lineman Joe Tatum, a senior 175 pounder, the only returnee up front the Leopards face a couple of weak spots. Hopefully replacements will fill the gaps for the line and at safety.

Halfbacks Freeman Bryant and Tom McClure are expected to hold those positions down, with some pressing by junior David Reeves.

Malvern is usually always one of the toughest teams to play against and with their schedules, one can understand why. The Leopards this year are experienced and determined.

Their defense is sometimes a split - 4, but often changed to a 5 - 4 on the goal line, and they're hard to block.

You can bet Malvern will be tough and with a returning team such as this year they will be up near the top.

Sheridan Returns 16 Lettermen

By BILL MOORE
Star Sportswriter

Winning the 3-AA title last year, going 10-1, and returning 16 lettermen from the '69 squad, the Sheridan Yellowjackets appear headed that way again with a number of outstanding performers back to lead the way.

The only problem the Yellowjackets might have to face is lack of depth, though it doesn't seem likely to happen.

Two linebackers appear to lead the defense. They are seniors Gary Eagle (175) and 185 pound Eddy Easley, both with quickness.

Also with ends Joe Yancey and Dean Davenport, and 210 pound senior tackle David May, the front line appears to be almost solid, though there is a small shortage at tackle.

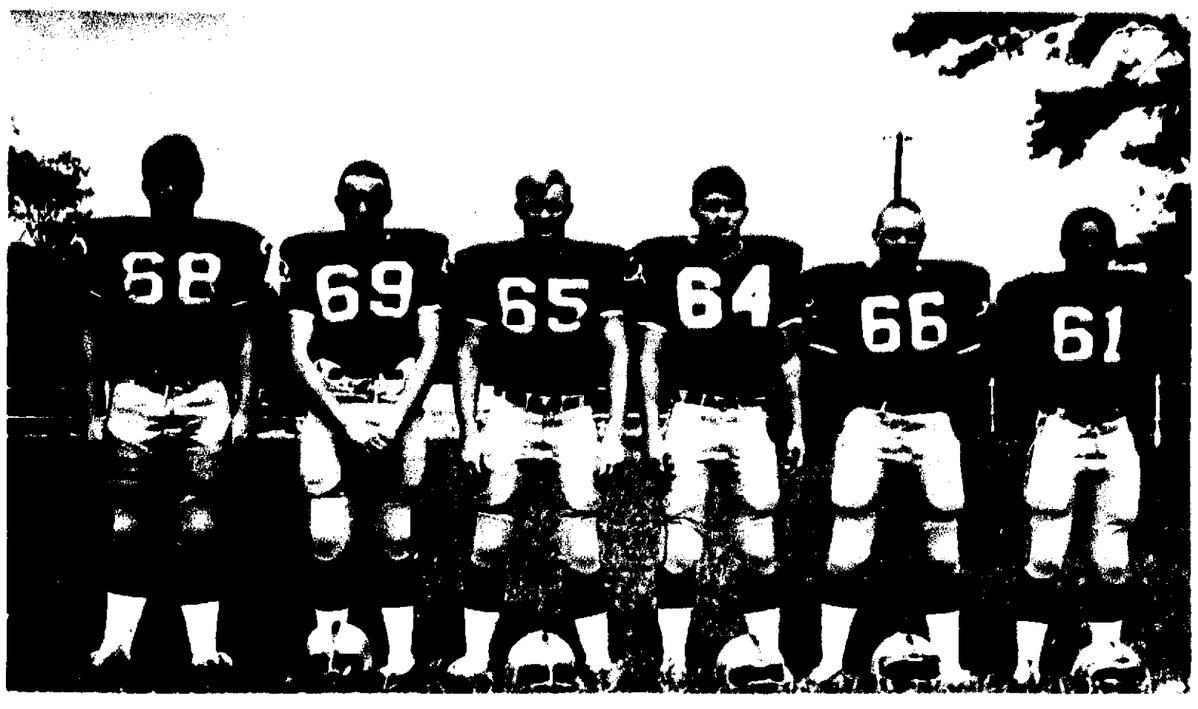

Offensively, it will be up to the line to make the plays work. Sheridan has a top notch quarterback in Dan Walters and his backfield cohorts are senior halfback Bill Sitzes and Jerry Reid, both of whom are able blockers, as well as runners.

As a whole the Jackets are big and quick with a rough defense, and have a few players that are already headed for past season honors, barring any injury.

The kicking game may be a problem though and the Yellowjackets could use a good kicker.

Sheridan's biggest and roughest foe appears to be the Mills High Comets, a 6-4 team in '69, and getting better this season.

Black College Football Emerging from Dust Bowls

By MARTY RALBOVSKY

NEW YORK—(NEA)—On Friday night, Sept. 11, football teams from North Carolina A&T College in Greensboro and Southern University in Baton Rouge will play in Yankee Stadium.

They will attract on that night, if the track record runs true to form, more people to watch them play than they will attact during the course of an entire season in their respective communities. In similar games between black college teams the last two years, 140,000 people have whirled through turnstiles of the Bronx ball yard, paying as much as $12.50 for a seat.

All of which indicates that, after years of being submerged in the dust-bowl stadia of the south and southwest, black college football is making a run at the metropolitan markets and their inherent publicity and profit. By showcasing their teams in the major cities of the north, black colleges feel they can enhance both their indentities and their treasuries in one fell swoop.

The merchandising of black college football begins, of course, with the acknowledgement that pro teams for years have been using the Alcorn A&Ms and the Bethune Cookmans as their personal feeding grounds. It should come as no surprise to people who follow pro football that Grambling College has produced more Kansas City Chiefs and Denver Broncos than UCLA or LSU.

With this in mind, an organization called the Football Coaches Foundation—composed of coaches and athletic directors at black colleges—has been promoting its wares with zeal usually reserved for safety blitzes. Their motto is, "Black Football Is Beautiful," and their goal is to bring to the Morris Browns and the Tennessee A&Ts the recognition it considers long overdue.

The founder of the FCF and the originator of the annual black college game in Yankee Stadium is a Philadelphia advertising executive named William Curtis. Three years ago, he felt the time was ripe at last to bring black college teams into the open, before metropolitan audiences, and New York City was the logical starting point. But his game plan needed some instant adjustments.

"When I first proposed an all-black game in New York, people laughed," Curtis said. "They said it'll never go. They told me, 'Who cares about black college football anyway?' I was disappointed, but I just pushed harder and harder. And when that first game finally came off, and 65,000 people showed up, I knew the breakthrough was made. Now it's up to us to keep the momentum going."

Off the success of his first two New York games, Curtis said he has subsequently been approached by promoters in Detroit and Chicago and Philadelphia who want to stage all-black games in their cities. "Now they tell me, 'Put on a game for us, anytime, any place. The contracts are waiting,'" Curtis said.

"The pro games are one of our best advertisements. People see players like Jim Marsalis and James Harris, for example, on TV and they hear their schools mentioned, Tennessee State and Grambling, and after awhile they start wondering, 'Where is Tennessee State? Never heard of that one before.' Now they're going to get the chance to find out about all the Tennessee States."

The Sept. 11 game pairs, in Curtis' words, "the two best black teams in the country in 1969," Southern University, coached by Alva Tabor (formerly of the New Orleans Saints' staff), has 13 former players in the NFL this season. North Carolina A&T, coached by Hornsby Howell, has 10. Both had 6-2-1 records last fall.

"But even more important than the game, "Curtis said, "is the money. It all goes to helping black youngsters go to college."

Intelligence Gap on Red China Revealed

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The hurry up launching of a secret spy satellite has underscored America's need to fill an intelligence gap on Red China's missile progress.

The new satellite, sent aloft Monday night, was headed today toward a stationary orbit some 20,000 miles above Southeast Asia, where it would be in position to monitor test launchings by both Red China and the Soviet Union.

The Air Force, which launched the spy craft, hopes it will do better than a similar satellite sent up last June.

That payload achieved a preliminary orbit of 112 to 20,736 miles above the earth. But two days later, the second stage of the Atlas-Agena rocket failed to restart and the satellite did not reach the desired hover orbit over Southeast Asia.

Sources said the Atlas-Agena rocket fired Monday night was rushed to the launch pad ahead of schedule because of the June failure. They said the move was necessary because the Defense Department wanted to monitor a reported upcoming series of Red Chinese missile firings.

The Air Force clamped a secrecy lid on the launch and did not announce it in advance. Five minutes after liftoff, a brief statement said only that an Atlas-Agena had been launched with an experimental payload.

Wolves of Prescott to Be Better

The 1969 campaign for the Prescott Curley Wolves was one of disappointments, losing to a couple of AA powerhouses and finally ending up 5..6 overall.

Actually only one game once again was the difference in a loss to the champion Ashdown Panthers.

It shouldn't be too hard to match last year's record, although the first few games, including AA powerhouse Hope will possibly be the difference in a winning and losing team. Although twelve seniors have departed, coach Charles Montgomery welcomes back 26 juniors and seniors including a group of sophomores.

One problem will be at quarterback, held down last year by Sandy Gautsche. This year little Freddie Wren, a 140 pound junior, has the lead for the job, but he can be backed up by Randy Hoger if necessary.

In the remaining backfield will be only one sure starter in fullback Timmy Grimes, a 190 pound senior who shows plenty of running power and is also a good blocker. The best prospect for halfback is Joseph Johnson a 160 pound senior with fairly good speed. Johnson is also Prescott's punt returner.

Also in the backfield will be Jimmy Williams, a 160 pound senior, who also plays linebacker and is called as one of the best in the league.

In the offensive line only tackles Duncan Aulpepper 170 and George Stockton 205 and guard Duncan Aulpepper 175 will return.

Replacing center Stuart Freeland is no easy task, but hopefully junior Ricky Marlar can replace him while Mike Tomlin is a prospect for the left guard spot.

Both ends have been vacated and replacements will most likely be George Dewoodey and Allen Loe, both with hardly any previous experience.

The defense returns five starters, three seniors, and two juniors. The Curly Wolves will need some added depth after finding six more starters, which may include some switching around.

Senior Andy Koger will head the secondary and it is not sure who will play alongside him. The leading two men are Horace McGough, a 160 pound senior, and Jimmy Jones, a 150 pound junior.

Back at noseman will be John Coe, a 170 pound junior, who is big, has a tough charge, and is hard to block out. Only one tackle returns and he is senior Larry Burke, also a big, strong rusher.

Senior linebacker Jimmy Williams, a 170 pounder will return to his old position. He is considered one of the toughest on the team and is a possible choice for all-district honors. Its anyone's guess who his counterpast will be.

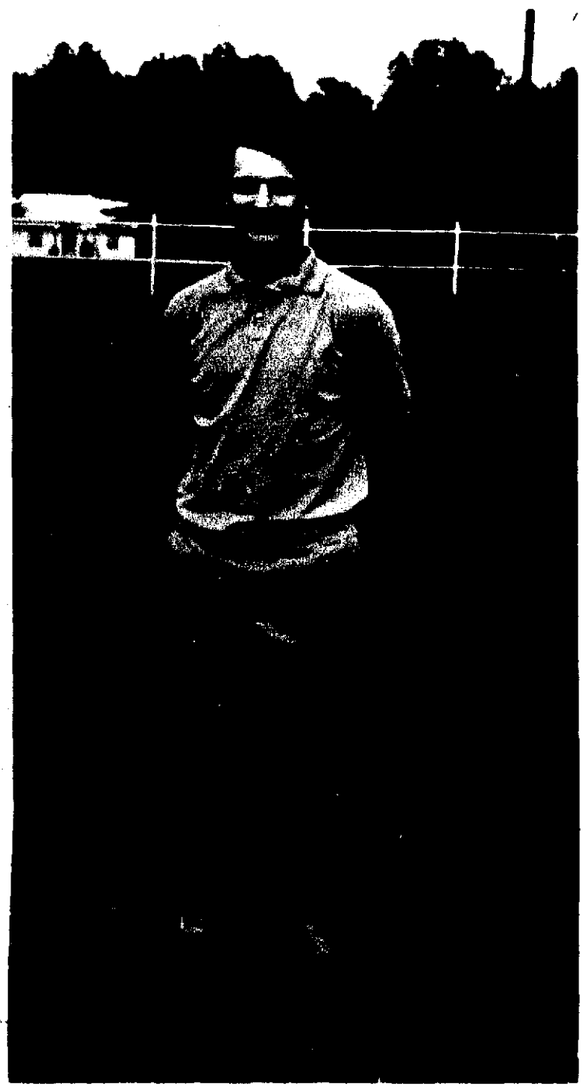

Defensive end will possibly be a problem with no sure starter. The loss of Bill Woodell and Mike Buske at those two positions may hurt the Curley Wolves, but coach Montgomery will hopefully find replacements to fill the openings.

What ever the score may be, Prescott opponents will get a game of hard-nosed football from the Curley Wolves and when the season is completed, fans should see Prescott in the upper brackett with Ashdown and Nashville. Those first few games could make a difference.

The moon does not have any effect on the earth's weather.

RAZORBACK LETTERMAN'S CLUB

A thriving Razorback Letterman's Club is enriching the tradition of University of Arkansas athletics. Under the leadership of its president, Brad Scott, the active organization completed a plush lounge at War Memorial Stadium in Little Rock where its members gather before and after Razorback games. A buffet meal is served prior to each game.

The new officers for the current year are: Bob Linebarier, president; Jim Holland, vice-president; Louis Schaufele, secretary-treasurer; and board members Brad Scott, Frank Lambright, Alton Baldwin and Darrell (Pete) Cato.

Legionnaires Get Down to Business

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The National American Legion convention gets down to official business today after a gala four-hour opening parade mildly heckled by antiwar demonstrators.

On the agenda were brief addresses by Oregon Gov. Tom McCall, Portland Mayor Terry Schrunk and other officials and dignitaries.

The convention's 14,000 delegates then begin consideration of more than 500 resolutions, expected to emphasize strong support for U.S. participation in the war in Southeast Asia, curbing campus violence, and maintaining national security.

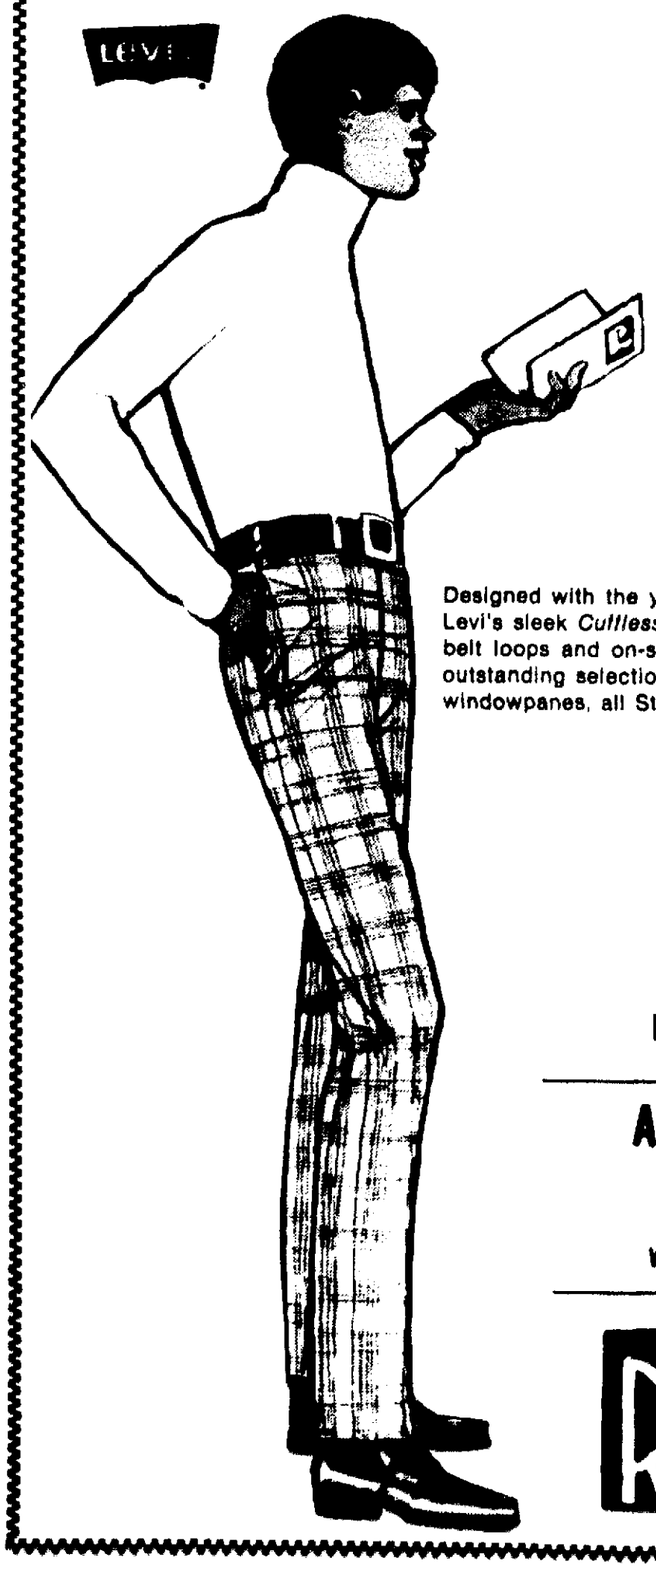

Some 10,000 persons marched or rode in Monday's parade while National Guard troops stood by, but out of sight, ready for trouble that never materialized.

About 1,300 members of the People's Army Jamboree, a group opposing U.S. policy in Southeast Asia, had marched on Sunday in a "Victory for the Vietnamese People" parade, and it was expected they would try to confront the legionnaires.

At one point in Monday's march a handful of youths chanted antiwar slogans, and displayed a Viet Cong flag. A scuffle broke out.

A squad of city police with face masks and riot sticks moved in.

But a tiny white-haired woman, who said she was a grandmother, interceded.

OLDERMAN

Hein and the Book Keep Pros Honest

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

PHILADELPHIA—(NEA)—Some time before the American Conference of the National Football League starts its season, all 13 teams will have been visited and addressed officially by a big bear of a man.

He is supervisor of officials, yet has never blown a field whistle himself. But none of the more than 500 players in his domain would challenge his credentials.

Physically, even at 60, Mel Hein wouldn't have to back down to any of them. He played 15 years in the old NFL as a center-linebacker for the New York Giants, which really amounts to 30 seasons because Hall-of-Famer Mel performed (1931-45) in an era when you knocked down a guy coming (on defense) and going (on offense) for 60 minutes a game.

Mel Hein

Then he coached at both the college and pro levels for the next 20 years until his old colleague, Al Davis, brought him to the AFL office in 1966 to take charge of the whistle blowers.

"First thing I did," notes Mel, "was really read the rule book."

Now he passes his acquired wisdom to the teams during this exhibition season so they'll know when and why a referee steps off from five to 15 yards for an infraction of the rules.

"The Oakland Raiders," he muses, "when I talked to them, they listened real well and they asked intelligent questions." That was at noon. At night, against the Philadelphia Eagles, they committed 179 yards worth of penalties on 14 infractions. They also won handily.

"The Buffalo Bills met with me," notes Mel, "at 4 o'clock before an 8 o'clock game. I didn't have their attention." The Bills didn't commit many fouls. They also got clobbered on the scoreboard.

Somewhere in this there is not a moral for law-and-order advocates.

"Actually," admits Mel, "if we called them by the book, there probably would be a whistle blown on every play in a football game."

The biggest culprit today, is a guy, generally a lineman on offense, who holds. He's almost as difficult to detect, when he's skillful, as a midnight mugger in Central Park.

The scene of the crime is generally from tackle to tackle, where the boys operate in close quarters and a referee sticking his nose into the melee is a candidate for plastic surgery. Offensive linemen who've polished the art of holding have gone through careers tenderly known as "Hooks" or "Grapples."

"Sometimes," says Mel in rare candor, "you almost have to wonder if they aren't coached to hold."

The most subtle offense, he says, is the "control block," in which the blocker straightens up as the defender comes at him, then using his hands (illegal) on the hips of his opponent, maneuvers him slickly in the desired direction.

From Mel's viewpoint, almost every block thrown on pass protection in pro ball is illegal because the arms, bent at the elbow, are extended from the body. "But it's accepted in pro ball," he shrugs, "so everyone goes along with it." It becomes flagrant enough for a penalty, however, when the blocker uses a full arm thrust and pushes.

Mel's also a stickler on the rule which demands that an offensive lineman have at least one foot even with the rear of the football before it's snapped. Such smart old tackles as Sherman Plunkett of the New York Jets and Ron Mix of the San Diego Chargers used to cheat a little by lining up off the ball, giving them more distance to brace for the defensive charge or putting them immediately in blocking position when they had to pull for a running play.

None of this, of course, is obvious to the layman in the stands. Until the referee steps in and marches off five quick ones to abort a long gain. "It's all part of the game," sighs Mel, wishing it weren't.

If I Couldn't Make Steelers Winner, I'd Stay Home

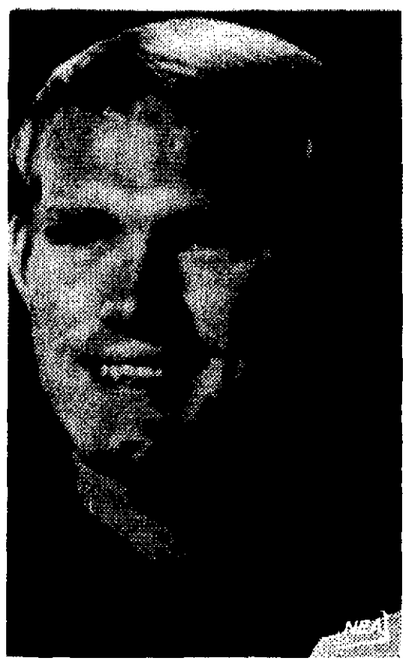

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — (NEA) — "Doggone!" Terry Bradshaw said to a press conference on his first visit to Pittsburgh last winter. "If I didn't think I could go out there and make Pittsburgh a winner, I'd stay home."

It was Pittsburgh's first taste of the Bradshaw presence, and by now hardly anyone who has seen Steeler quarterback Terry Bradshaw in action and listened to him prattle about the joys of football has failed to be sold.

"Loved it! Loved it!" cried the rookie after he had played his first pro game, and when someone asked if an interception he had thrown had upset him, he said, "Nah. Not the least little bit." His conversation brims with doggones and gol-lees that add up to a Louisiana charm Pittsburghers are finding irresistible.

Bradshaw was, of course, the first college player selected in the 1970 draft and as such bore the label of best college football player in the nation. He stands 6-foot-3, weighs 215 pounds, has glistening yellow hair, deep-set blue eyes, small white teeth and large dimples. In short, his apple-pie looks are unfair to the average man. If he were quarterbacking a New York team and enjoying the attention of the nation's most powerful press, the Joe Namath cult already would be suffering heavy inroads and Madison Avenue would be declaring Bradshaw the hottest sports property of the 1970s.

One's first sight of Bradshaw rocketing a football is nothing short of eye-popping. Old-timers who have studied the golden quarterbacks from Sammy Baugh to Namath unequivocally pronounce Bradshaw's arm the greatest they have ever seen. "The Steelers," said former quarterback Y. A. Tittle, "ought to charge the crowd two or three dollars just to watch Bradshaw warm up."

Terry Bradshaw

Bradshaw comes from Shreveport, La., where, to hear him tell it, he attracts no more attention than the neighborhood grocer. "Back home they don't care if I never draw another breath," he says, not with annoyance but jovially. "I go downtown and no one looks at me. This guy who sells cars gave me $400 to make an appearance. He put ads in the paper: 'Come and get Terry Bradshaw's autograph.' Know how many autographs I signed in two days? Four. That's $100 an autograph. I said to him, 'Hey, let's do this again.'"

Exaggerated publicity preceded Bradshaw's arrival in the North, painting him as a study in virtue, a young man of impeccable personal habits. A member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, he wears his sideburns neat and believes it important that he set a good example for American youth. But he enjoys an occasional gin-and-tonic and from time to time may be seen smoking a long riverboat-gambler cigar. When it was suggested to him that a drink and a cigar do not conform to his image, he snapped, "I can't help that. I'll do as I please."

Nor is Bradshaw oblivious to the sight of a pretty girl. Suspecting as much, an enterprising owner of a small Pittsburgh radio station hit upon a shrewd tactic for signing Bradshaw to an exclusive broadcasting contract. At the time, Bradshaw lay in a hospital bed, recovering from minor surgery. The station owner dispatched a beautiful secretary to the hospital with the contract. Much to the disgust of Bradshaw's lawyer back home in Shreveport, Terry neglected to phone for advice and signed on the dotted line.

As striking as his good looks and throwing arm are, rookie Bradshaw's most distinguishing characteristic may be his gift of command. Possessed of absolute self-confidence, he takes charge of teammates in a fashion reminiscent of Bobby Layne. During the recent player strike, when only rookies were in training camp, Bradshaw popped into a restaurant near the Steeler camp at Latrobe, Pa. A line of eight rookies sat at the bar, having their evening beer. Bradshaw walked past a few unoccupied stools, striding to the head of the bar. There, one of the rookies climbed off his stool and gave it to Bradshaw, and each of the other rookies in turn slid one stool down the bar.

Watching punter Bobby Walden practice one day, Bradshaw strode to Walden's side and joined in. He punted four times for mediocre distances. Then he said to Walden, "Betcha five dollars I can punt farther than you." Walden snapped at the offer, whereupon Bradshaw immediately punted 65 yards and collected.

Last year, when Chuck Noll became head coach of the Steelers, he described himself as a firm believer in the theory that quarterbacks need at least several years of experience to become effective starters, but Noll rapidly is finding that the theory may not have the slightest application to Terry Bradshaw.

In an exhibition game against the NFL champion Minnesota Vikings, Bradshaw, his inexperience showing, threw three interceptions and completed only 12 of 30 passes, but veteran quarterbacks Kent Nix and Terry Hanratty remained on the bench because Noll perceived that, with Bradshaw on the field, something electric was happening to the Steelers. They upset the Vikings, 20-13, and Steeler veterans were quick to attribute their performance to the invigorating magic of the Bradshaw presence.

The Vikings, too, could not have helped but be impressed. At one point in the game they blitzed Bradshaw furiously. With hands and arms clutching him, he completed his pass. "Hey, helluva nice blitz, fellas," he piped to the fearsome Purple People-Eaters. "Too bad it didn't work."

Doesn't Think of Self as White Knight

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dale Bumpers does not think of himself as a white knight, although some of his less sophisticated supporters regard him as one.

Neither is he politically naive, even though he is a newcomer to statewide politics.

The 45-year-old Charleston lawyer who won a Democratic primary runoff spot against former Gov. Orval E. Faubus sees himself as a sensible man, talking sense about state government.

"I felt that if the appeal was sensible, the voters would respond sensibly, and that's what they did Aug. 25," he says. "That's what they'll do Sept. 8."

It was no accident that Bumpers surged in the closing days of the preferential primary campaign, moving in a few days from fourth place to second, less than 5,000 votes ahead of Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell.

"We figured that there would be a large undecided vote two weeks before the primary," he said. "We saved our money to appeal to the undecided."

The strategy — not the strategy of the neophyte — worked.

'Panther Pat'

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—A pair of football players, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Palinkas, were eating in a neighborhood restaurant in their home town, Tampa, Fla., when another customer came over and inquired of the lady, "Hey, ain't you Panther Pat?"

"Yes," replied Pat, who, with her teammate and bedmate, plays for the Orlando Panthers of the Atlantic Coast League, a semipro organization.

"Would ya gimme your autograph?"

She obliged. Then, as the man was about to depart, Panther Pat said, "Aren't you going to ask my husband, too? He's the kicker. I just hold the ball for him."

"Well, all right," he replied, "but make him sign on the bottom someplace."

Neglect like this bothers Steve Palinkas little, he says. The Palinkases were in town for ABC-TV's Monday night pro-football game on which Pat is called "the No. 1 football fan."

Pat has become a national celebrity and all that's left for him to do is capitalize on it. Not in mercenary fashion, for sure, but as an opportunist. He hopes that when she retires from active play, which may be any day, she will land a television show on the order of "Football a la Femme."

The biggest break would be for him to get a tryout with a National Football League team, something he tried for without success this summer. Current publicity could further his future.

Palinkas wrote to every NFL team and requested a tryout as a field-goal, extra-point and kick-off specialist. The response surprised him. He did not realize there were so many ways to say "No." The Cleveland Browns suggested he hook on with a semipro team. Palinkas called the Orlando team because it was so close to Tampa.

Palinkas talked to the general manager and coach, Paul Massey, who agreed on the tryout. Massey advised him to bring his holder.

"It's a her," said Palinkas. "My wife."

"Well," said Massey, "then bring her."

Palinkas, who played tackle and kicked for his high school team in Carteret, N.J., is now a senior majoring in economics at the University of Tampa. He did not play football there. But one day he got it into his head that he could kick with the pros. So he asked a neighbor to hold for him while he practiced. The neighbor soon got bored of holding and tired of kneeling. Next, he dragooned his wife, Pat.

Steve knew that Pat, a willowy blonde, liked football because she would always come into the living room when he watched games on television and kept asking him which team was in the white and which was in the black. "It was hard for her to get that straight," said Steve. "That drove me batty."

Pat held and became highly proficient. In games, she has held well despite being inundated by a 235-pound tackle in her first try in a game.

Her most horrendous moment, however, came before that first game, when she looked in the mirror. She observed her shoulder pads, and her feet, with dainty gym shoes inside football clodhoppers, and shouted, "I won't go. I won't go, looking like this." But she applied lipstick and then went out to become the first woman ever to play professional football.

Magnolia Sure to Be Stronger

By BILL MOORE
Star Sportswriter

Hoping to rebuild from a 7-3 mark a year ago, the Magnolia Panters will not be one of the weakest teams in 4-AA with 18 lettermen returning for the '70 campaign.

Coach Don Hubbard has expressed that the Panthers have hardly any experience on offense and no overall speed. However, size could make up a large portion with some players weighing 190 or more.

Unproven at quarterback is senior Pat Schultz a 150 pounder, who will direct offensive activities, and should he fail, it would leave either Richard Souter or Paul Kirkpatrick.

The backfield for the Panthers is in real trouble with only junior halfback John Kincaid, running with any experience. Much is expected from Dennis Knotts and James Erwin though, both vying for starting roles.

Anchoring the line are Roger Loper, a 175 pound center, and 200-pound tackle Randy Nance. Both men are fairly quick for their size and are exceptionally good blockers. The only other returning starter is strong end Ronnie Smith, a small 150 pounder, but with good hands.

Prospects for the remaining starter roles are Ken Gilbert, Allen Barge, James Souter, Mark Phillips, and Paul Rogers.

Usually running a monster defense and changing to a 6-5 near the goal line, Magnolia looks solid with eight defensive starters returning. Still needed are an end, linebacker, and halfback.

Ralph Horridge returns at his rugged noseman position with tackles held down by 212 pound senior Claude Wells and 190 pound junior Mike Burdine. Holding down one end will be Tom Schneider, a junior 165 pounder and possible two-way starting, while possibly Jerry Caldwell will see action at the other, with Bartson Dodson seeing action also.

At monster man returns small but explosive little Ross Atkinson, with a years solid experience. Only senior Randy Couch is a certain starter at linebacker with the other side open for anyone. Couch is almost certain to be headed for district honors with his fine abilities.

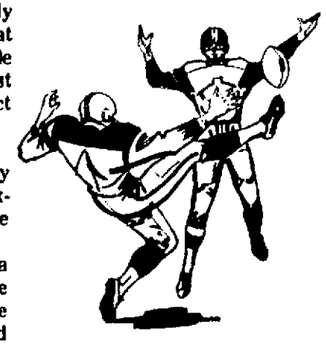

Dennis Knots and James Edwin are automatic secondary starters with good size and experience, and have satisfied the coaches with their efforts.

Overall, Magnolia will not be a real title contender, but will give everyone else a battle to the finish and possibly end up third or fourth in the standings.

1970 OPPONENTS

STANFORD INDIANS

JOHN RALSTON

A recent ruling by the NCAA, permitting 11-game schedules, will give the nation's football fans an opportunity to see a pair of potentially outstanding college football teams when Arkansas entertains Stanford. The Indians, coached by John Ralston, played to a 7-2-1 record last season, barely missing out on a trip to the Rose Bowl. Ralston lost 11 regulars from that team, but he has a record 34 lettermen returning for the '70 schedule.

Leading the returnees is All-America quarterback Jim Plunkett who is being billed as a Heisman Trophy candidate. With Plunkett at the helm, the Indians piled up 4,946 yards in total offense last season.

Plunkett won't be the only thorn in the side of opposing defensive coaches. The Indian ground forces averaged 196 yards per game in 1969. Running backs Jackie Brown and Hillary Shockley, both solid 200-pounders, will put extra pressure on the defense.

Defense, however, has been the Indian's major problem. Even though they blanked three opponents, they finished last in the Pacific 8 Conference in pass defense, surrendering 145 completions for an average of 183 yards per game. Ralston hopes to remedy this by employing a new 4-3-4, pro-style defense to bolster the secondary.

Other Indians to watch are tight-end Bob Moore, a 6-3, 221-pounder who led the receiving corps last year with 38 grabs for 476 yards. Center John Sande, an honorable mention All-America choice, leads the interior linemen. Defensive tackle Pete Lazetich, 6-3, 236-pounds, anchors the front four. He was credited with 45 tackles last season.

1970 SUGAR BOWL

Two of college football's outstanding quarterbacks, Bill Montgomery of Arkansas, and Archie Manning of Mississippi locked horns in the 36th annual Sugar Bowl contest on Jan. 1, 1970 in New Orleans. Despite a record-breaking performance, Montgomery and his Porkers fell just short in a frantic, fourth-period comeback as the Rebels prevailed, 27-22. Manning, recipient of the Miller-Digby Award as the game's outstanding player, hit on 21 of 35 passes for 273 yards and one touchdown. Montgomery bettered his effort as he connected on 17 of 34 aerials for 338 yards and two touchdowns.

Following a missed field goal by the Porkers, the Rebs stunned the favored Hogs when Bo Bowen rambled 69 yards for an early touchdown. Arkansas followed with another missed three-pointer, and Manning drove the Rebs another 80 yards, keeping the ball himself for the final 18 and the touchdown.

Arkansas finally broke the ice on a 12-yard sweep by Bill Burnett, but the Rebels responded with 10 more points. Cloyce Hinton booted a record-breaking 52-yard field goal, and Manning fired a 30-yard scoring pass to Vernon Studdard.

A pass from Montgomery to Chuck Dicus, the '69 Miller-Digby winner, covered 47 yards, giving the Hogs their second touchdown. The Razorbacks came one step closer after Hinton and Porker kicker Bill McClard traded field goals.

Porker fullback Bruce Maxwell, who gained 103 yards on the ground, took a six-yard touchdown pass from Montgomery. Arkansas, however, could get no closer. They had a pass intercepted in the end zone. The determined Hogs came back again, but a late fumble brought an end to their rally.

By MURRAY OLDERMAN, NEA Executive Editor

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y. (NEA) The New York Jets know they need Joe Willie Namath to win football games, but that doesn't make him a sacred symbol—to them.

Joe's posture, shaggy head drooping from bowed neck like a wilted flower, resembles a question mark. His hair sprouts in all directions like the petals of a daisy and has grown over his ample ears.

Jim Turner, the place-kicker and spare-part quarterback, glances wryly at the team "savior" seated next to him in the Jets' training quarters—they're still at Hofstra University—and says:

"Isn't SHE beautiful?"

Only 10 feet away, linebacker Al Atkinson is pulling a practice jersey off his bulky shoulders. He smiles. He's the prototype of the strong, silent man. But a couple of weeks ago, in temporary retirement, he had blasted Namath for his life style and deplored the greed of the modern athlete. Then, for "the good of the team," he came back.

Was he embarrassed about facing Joe?

"No," he says. "I was just worried that Joe might be embarrassed."

Their return to the Jets was simultaneous, and so that first night they both went out and had a few beers. They didn't discuss their relationship or any other momentous topics. "We told a few dirty stories," grins Al, who once contemplated studying for the priesthood. "Hell, I love the guy."

But there'll be an eventual face-off.

"One day Joe and I will sit down and talk it all out, but I don't regret anything I said," adds Al. "I still want to see what's going to happen here. I think Joe should get away from the kind of crowd he's surrounded by, get out of the asphalt jungle. He has to face up to his responsibilities and not listen to those phonies tell him he's a great actor. He's not an actor; he's a professional football player."

Namath, who resents criticism of his actions, admits he was shaken up by Atkinson's blast because of his respect for Al as a moral person. But his sense of humor persists.

A photographer comes over and says he'd like to get a picture of Namath and Atkinson together. Where can he find Al?

"He's right over there," points Joe. "We just had a big fight." He ducks his head and smiles.

Al tries to explain his "love" for Namath::

"First of all, he's a great athlete, and I admire that. Also, he's a winner. You know, we came up as rookies together and I've seen what he's done for us."

Atkinson's responses are those of a professional and jibe with those of Larry Grantham, who plays next to him as the weak-side linebacker on the defensive unit. Larry is a Jet original who goes back to the period when they ran to the bank to cash their checks before they bounced. He's 32 and the vice-president of a bank in Jackson, Miss., and carries a pot belly. A lot of people figured he would retire this season.

"I figured Joe would play again," he says, "so I came back because we can win as long as we got Joe."

"I'm here," echoes Atkinson, "to win a world championship. Last year wasn't much fun."

So Joe Willie, with his "now" look, his irreverence for rules and tradition, holds out the prospect of fun for the Jets, most of whom are reconciled to his nonconformism.

Vito (Babe) Parilli, the 40-year-old quarterback who dresses next to Namath, teases, "Can you feature Joe here playing for Paul Brown?" Brown is a noted stickler who preaches regimented football.

"Can you feature me," Namath flips back, "playing for Bear Bryant?"

Namath, of course, played for Bryant at Alabama and was responsive to the rugged 'Bama coach's discipline. At that time he wore a crew cut. He didn't carry a paper cup in which to spit out his snuff. Times do change—just as Joe Willie did.

Crossett Had Share of the Crown

By BILL MOORE
Star Sportswriter

A new addition to the Bobcat schedule is Crossett, a team that shared the Eastern division crown last year, but that lost all but eight lettermen, including five holdover starters.

Returning almost entirely nothing except a few starters, the Eagles must start all in a giant rebuilding campaign with no experience, height, and speed.

Bob Waltom, a former defensive halfback moved to quarterback, will try his skills at signal calling this year. Waltom, with no former experience at this position will put together his senior leadership for a shot at moving the offense, which should be difficult.

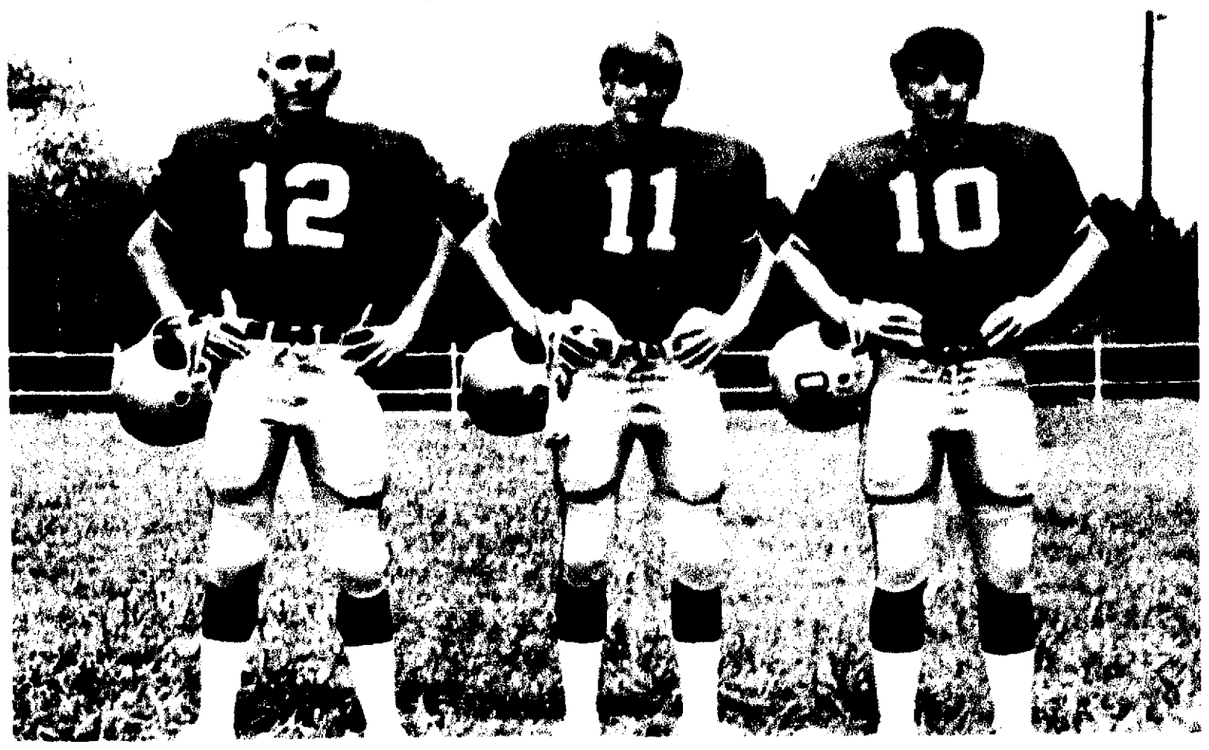

Ends Bill Ray and Frank Carter return to lead the receivers and should Crossett wind up with a passing arm, these two will aid the offense greatly. The guards will probably be filled by Buddy Stephens and Tod Brown, with the rest of the interior line a toss-up between anyone.

The backfield runners will be led by returning veteran fullback Bubba Lovett, a capable gridiron veteran, with backfield help expected from Billy Burchfield, an unproven, inexperienced player.

The defense returns only noseguard Richard White, a 215 pounder, with plenty of size and quickness. Crossett must find replacements for the rest of the positions and hope they can come through to stop opposing offenses.

After last years' shining 9-3 record with numbered losses to graduation, the Eagles probably will be glad to match a reversal of that record and stay out of the cellar.

Latins Just Not Buying U.S. Warplanes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sales of U.S. jet warplanes to Latin America are doing poorly despite Washington's willingness to sell a limited number of the modern craft.

Of the four countries named by the State Department last May as possible buyers of the American planes, only Argentina has actually ordered them, U.S. officials said.

Brazil was reported to have chosen French Mirages. Colombia was said to be considering Mirages because it can't get easy credit terms for American-made Skyhawks. Chile seems to have lost interest in an earlier bid for U.S.-made F-5's.

From the standpoint of U.S. administration officials, a key problem is the United States' inability to match easy financing terms offered by European competitors.

The U.S. law which used to provide financing for such deals —the Foreign Military Sales Act —expired last January and successive legislation is tied up in House-Senate conference.

Also limiting U.S. financing are restrictions in the U.S. foreign aid law aimed at curbing Latin American arms races.

State Department officials denied U.S. policy encourages arms races south of the border. Rather, they say, a carefully limited supplying of military items would tend to hold down arms competition.

If the Latin Americans cannot get weapons from the United States, they say, the nations will turn elsewhere.

American Conference:

BOSTON

Rush

PROSPECTUS — Despite brouhaha with press most of '69, new coach Clive (pronounced Cleve) Rush actually got Patriots untracked by end of season. Were 4-1 at one point after mid-season. That doesn't make 'em champs yet, but they'll make strong stab at .500 this year.

Cheyunski

OFFENSE

PASSING—Best thing Mike Taliaferro has going for him is Rush's faith. Clive liked Mike's work when they were both with Jets. Has licked his proclivity for throwing long bomb. Will never be brilliant but he's big and strong enough. Kim Hammond is chief relief. Rating—B—

RECEIVING—Once Ron Sellers got over early injury, showed why Pats drafted him tops year ago. He's got it all—size, speed, glue fingers. He's a good one. Considerable drop in quality when you go to Charlie Frazier or Bill Radamacher as wide mate. Tommy, another of Richardson pass-nabbing brothers, is long shot to oust both. Got Tom Beer for better blocking at tight end, but he's being challenged by Barry Brown. Rating—B

RUNNING—Once Jim Nance signs contract (expected), they'll be strong enough. Carl Garrett was whiz of rookie as running aide and will get better. Behind them are R. C. Gamble, Sid Blanks—unspectacular vets—but watch for Eddie Ray, LSU rookie, to get some work. Rating—B+

LINE—Pats feel this was most unappreciated unit on club. Got testimonials from opponents late in season. Hub is Jon Morris, who could be best center in league, despite what they say about Oakland's Otto. Len St. Jean, Mike Montler make rugged guard tandem. The Toms—Neville and Funchess, are solid at tackle. And it's nice to have old Charlie Long around for swing duty right down the line. Rating—B+

DEFENSE

LINE—More than Phil Olsen's knee got hurt when prize rookie tore it up in camp. He's out for year, leaving glaring hole at end. Inevitably, they've got to trade, though Ron Berger (6-8, 275) is big enough. Couple of solid defensive ends would take load off veteran tackles Jim Hunt, Houston Antwine, who've got 22 years experience between them. Rating—C

LINEBACKING—Didn't skip a beat when Nick Buoniconti went off to Miami last year. Jim Cheyunski stepped right in and set new team record for tackles, as middle man. Couple of head hunters, Ed Philpott and John Bramlett, flank him. But they'll have to step lively because Mike (Cat) Ballou of UCLA is on their tails. Vet Marty Schottenheimer, rookie Bob Olson can help out, too. Rating—B+

SECONDARY—Coaches consider this best part of team. Lively bunch of steppers. Coach Bill Elias calls 'em his Bantam Roosters. Only oldster is all-league Don Webb. Jazzy Daryle Johnson, steady Larry Carwell man corners; John Charles holds up at strong safety. And there are half a dozen qualified subs pressing for action behind them. Rating—A—

KICKING—Tommy Janik, sub safety, jacked up quality of punting. Gino Cappelletti, original Patriot, still boots field goals and can fill in as receiver, but he has challenge from rookie Henry Brown, who doubles as receiver, too. Rating—B+

COACH JOHNNY MCMURRY

Entering his second year of coaching, Coach Johnny McMurry, 24, is in charge of the defensive secondary.

He graduated from Arkansas A&M, with a major in physical education, where he started for two years as a defensive halfback and also lettered on the swimming team.

A native of Warren, where he played football, basketball, and ran track, he is married to the former Robyn Galloway, of Hope.

COACH ED WHITE

Beginning his twelth season as trainer for the Hope Bobcats and director of Athletics, Ed White is the dean of the coaching staff.

As an assistant coach during track, Coach White is 40 years old. He graduated from Magnolia High School in 1950, where he lettered in football. In 1955 he earned his B.S.E. from Southern State College and is presently teaching math at HHS.

COACH BROYLES apparently can't bear to look at the upcoming play as he calls the shots from the sidelines at a Razorback game. Entering his 13th season, the Arkansas coach has 100 victories to his credit.

Major Sees Second Century of Collegiate Football as Hard to Predict as the First

By MAJOR AMOS BARNABY HOOPLE

Football's Foremost Forecaster

Egad, friends, the fellow who said "the first 100 years are the hardest" could not have been talking about intercollegiate football.

With the college lads now in the second century of pigskin warfare the problems facing players, coaches, and the members of your peerless prognosticator's profession are more formidable than ever—um-kumph!

The day of the snap opener, the soft touch, to—ahem—coin a phrase, is gone. The schedule makers — all, no doubt, descendants of Barnabas Collins—get to the bloodletting right from the start this season. On the opening card for Sept. 12 are several clashes of titanic proportions.

Highlighting the schedule are the meetings of such awesome powerhouses as Alabama and Southern California, and Arkansas hosting another Pacific Eight power, Stanford, in the TV opener.

And how about these engagements to — heh-heh — add a little frosting to the cake, Florida—Duke, Georgia Tech—So. Carolina, Kansas — Washington State, Maryland — Villanova, Mississippi State — Oklahoma State, Nebraska—Wake Forest, No. Carolina—Kentucky.

Think the schedule boys have had enough fun? No siree, kiddies, they've got a couple of more beauties for you that day. An even half-dozen contests that will give the odds-makers the heebie-jeebies pair Oregon—California, UCLA—Oregon State, Southern Methodist — Oklahoma, Texas Tech—Tulane, Virginia Tech—Virginia and West Virginia — William & Mary. Who will the winners be? Well — kaff-kaff—more on that later.

Faced with the difficult choices detailed above, less stout-hearted forecasters than your favorite correspondent may be tempted to turn in their collegiate credentials and be content with predicting the local tiddlywinks competition! But that, I assure you, is not the way of a Hoople. The Hoople team, including my prize assistants, Red Board Daily, Dr. I. M. Inorbit and Hannibal Wottaburp, are hard at work digesting the reports pouring in from our agents across the country.

One fact reads loud and clear from all the summaries sent in by our football experts — the 1970 crop of quarterbacks is stupendous! Never before in the 100-year history of the college sport has there been such a glittering array of skillful tacticians, most of whom are talented aerialists, too.

Time and space do not permit me to go into detail about the relative merits of these outstanding stalwarts, nor can I name them all, so here are just a few who will make grid history this fall—Rex Kern and supersub Ron Maciejowski of Ohio State, John Reaves of Florida, Bill Montgomery of Arkansas, Joe Theismann of Notre Dame, Chuck Hixson of SMU, Archie Manning of Mississippi, Don Moorhead of Michigan, Jim Plunkett of Stanford, Jimmy Jones of Southern California, Jack Mildren of Oklahoma, Lynn Dickey of Kansas State, Dennis Dummit of UCLA, and Leo Hart of Duke. Jove! What a delight it must be to have one of these lads on your side!

As in past years this department has been deluged by requests for our prediction of which elevens will finish in the Top Ten for the season. Not wishing to put our many friends in the coaching ranks under the gun we have once more refused to release the confidential Hoople files.

However, as a slight concession to the millions of loyal followers of the Hoople Football Forecasts, here are the teams I predict will be vying for the top spot all year with any one of them capable of going all the way to the national crown—Ohio State (power, power, power), Notre Dame (good offense, good defense), Texas (sound, solid football), Southern California (Jimmy Jones, Ron Ayala and John McKay), South Carolina (Paul Dietzel, top-tutor, is backed by 36 lettermen).

That's how things are shaping up, friends, as the referees get set to blow the opening whistle. Oh, yes, for the winners of the contests mentioned earlier watch for my first card, coming soon, in this, your favorite newspaper.

The selections will astound you—har-rumph!
